WILL DOESN'T LIKE ZIGGY'S HINTS AS TO NEW SHOW

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 7.—"Dear Bill: Your little part in 'The Show Girl' is opening Wednesday night in my big production, 'The Show Girl.' She is playing the part of Dixie Dugan at Ziegfeld's Theater, Sixth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, matinee Wednesday and Saturdays, tickets six and six and a half."

"She gave up her vacation out at your place to save this show for me. I just think that you thought you might drop a hint of it in your daily wire to the papers. Regards to you and Fred Stone and your families, FLO ZIEGFELD."

"I don't like little hints. Flo. In fact, I think that is kinder what has held you back in newspaper space. You never liked to be forward. We will let you get away with this time on account of Dorothy. Good luck to both of you. Yours, WILL."

PA NEW OBSERVES

Whether it has been because of the coldness of the weather, making the water uncomfortable for bathing, or whether more people are learning to swim, Pa New does not know, but there have been fewer drownings in this vicinity during the present summer than in many years.

Pennsylvania's historic Civil War regiment, the Roundheads, will gather in the Central Presbyterian church on August 21. There are mighty few of these old warriors left and the citizens should give them a hand at their meeting this year.

Tomorrow, Old Timers will be given an opportunity to greet their friends from Youngstown, when a great crowd of former residents now living in the Ohio city will gather here for a picnic and reunion with their old-time friends. Wear a red ribbon, is the request made by the committee.

The various schools of the city are being put in good shape for the opening of the term on September 4th. The school year this year starts somewhat earlier than in former years, so the kiddies will be able to get a good start.

Legionally speaking, this has been a big year for the Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion. They are leading the entire 26th district in membership, and are already making plans to increase the total figures for next year. The local boys are hopeful of bringing the state convention here in 1931.

Looks like we are slowly headed for another heat wave. The weather is gradually warming up after several days of frigidity. It is not too hot to be the subject of conversation, however.

The government has assured New Castle a new post office this next year. Apparently the same over-taxed condition that prevailed last Christmas will come up again. The present office is far too inadequate.

New Castle High school's football boys will soon be in camp, making preparations for another W. P. (Continued On Page Two)

COURTROOM, COLUM-BUS, O., Aug. 7.—The dramatic high point of the Snook trial came today when Dr.
James H. Snook, the college professor who killed Theora Hix, an attractive young college girl, took the witness stand in his own behalf. Poised, self-contained and testifying in a clear voice, Snook revealed before he had been on the stand half an hour that a discussion of "companionate marriage" between him and Theora led to a "mutual agreement" which resulted in their having many secret trysts.

Boy Friend Left
"Miss Hix had told me her boy friend had left the university for the summer," Snook related. "This was in 1926. She said she was lonesome, and wanted someone who was safe and 'knew something.' We had been discussing sex subjects after our talk."

Tongmen Agree To End Warfare

'Permanent Peace' Is Agreed Upon By On Leong And Hip Sing Tongmen

GOVERNMENT GIVES OUT DIRE THREAT

By LEONARD H. ARNOLD

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The network which binds the Chinatowns of the United States is carrying a peace message today—the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongmen have made "permanent peace."

It is not the first time "permanent peace" has been made.

Five Chinese were slain since Sunday's twilight brought an outbreak of hostilities between the rival organizations. As peace negotiations were going on last night there was another shooting in Chicago and the victim is expected to die—but that "didn't count," according to U. S.
Attorney Tuttle, who is accorded credit for bringing together the national representatives of the tongs and "guiding" them into the peace pact.

Threats Are Made With the firm assurance that the government was ready to raid Chinatowns throughout the country and bring down wholesale deportations, the national representatives were "guided" into signing the treaty this morning.

It was admitted there were a few minor differences to be ironed out at a meeting which will be held today in the Chinese Benevolent Association offices.

Of the five men who lost their lives in the recent feud, only well-informed Chinese know their true identities.

Five is not divisible by two—it is believed there will be some difficult work in adding and subtracting to iron out the differences.

But then, the Chicago tongman probably will die and six is three and three.

Meanwhile Chinatown breathes more easily, yet cautiously.

OHIO OFFICERS
WANT HIM THERE

Matt Yarnovich, arrested early last night by Officer Charles Longstreth, following his attempt to pass a bad check at the Perelman Jewelry company store, 123 East Washington street, was today charged with forgery and issuing worthless checks before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton by Captain J. E. Elder of the police force, acting chief of police at the present time. He is being held in the county jail. Previous to the time of his arrest, he had attempted to pass checks in several places, the police state and is believed to have more than a local reputation as a bad check passer.

According to the Youngstown and Campbell, O., authorities, he is also wanted there for the theft of a car, which he had been driving about this city for several days and which he abandoned in Campbell, when the police chased him too hard.

Police Get Call
A call came from the Perelman Jewelry company about 6:30 o'clock last night that a man was attempting to pass what had every evidence of being a bad check.

Officer Longstreth was detailed and after investigating, he took Yarnovich

Train Hits Unknown; Dies Shortly After

Body of a man, apparently about 40 years of age, who died about 10 o'clock this morning near the Paper Mill, shortly after being struck by a northbound Pennsylvania freight train, still remained unidentified at the Ottumwa funeral home late this afternoon.

According to the information obtained, he was seated on the right-hand rail of the northbound track of the Pennsylvania, about 500 feet south of the Paper Mill bridge, and on a bench, when struck. The train was rounding the bend and the engineer did not see him in time to stop the train before hitting him.

The man lived a short time after being removed from under the train.
Lui was dead by the time the ambulance could arrive.

The only possible clue as to his identity was what appeared to be a receipt for a salary paid him, which was endorsed with the name of "George Burns." Whether this is the name of the man is not now known.
The slip showed salary due to the amount of $17 and was dated July 31, 1929.

Rail Crossing To Be Overhead At Enon Valley

Officials Of Road, County And State Agree After Conference Held Tuesday

WILL COMPLETE LINK BETWEEN COUNTIES

With Overhead Agreed Upon, Construction Of Road Will Now Be Expedited

Following a conference at Enon Valley Tuesday between the board of county commissioners, T. J. McCullough, Calvin C. Boyd and P. O. Elder, District Engineer T. C. Frame of the state highway department, members of the public service commission and officials of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., a definite location for the crossing of Pennsylvania highway route 351 over the Pennsylvania R. R. near Enon Valley was established at McCowan's Crossing.

Completion of route 351 to link up
New Castle with Beaver Falls, via Enon Valley has been held up over the inability of the various parties concerned to come to a definite agreement over the rail crossing.

Agree on Overhead
After the conference yesterday Commissioner Boyd stated that all were agreed on an overhead crossing over the railroad at this point, which is about a mile south of Enon Valley proper.

Confirmation of the agreement will be made at a hearing before the public service commission in Pittsburgh on August 21, after which the contract for the short stretch which will link up the road in Beaver and Lawrence counties will be let and rushed to completion.

The Lawrence county section has been completed to Enon Valley, while contractors have just completed laying the concrete on the last stretch in Beaver county.

While the road is not a short cut to Beaver Falls from New Castle, it takes the traveler through a section which abounds in natural scenery and links up the western end of the county with a direct route to Beaver Falls and New Castle. It also connects the western end of the county with Elwood City via Koppel.

The road will cross the railroad at this point by an overhead crossing, eliminating the hazard of crossing the tracks on a grade crossing, which has been one of the points at issue.

Eighty-One Lives Lost To Date On Grade Crossings

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—A toll of 81 lives was taken in steam railroad crossing accidents during the first half of 1929 it was revealed here today by the bureau of statistics of the public service commission. Two hundred and fifty persons were injured at grade crossings and of the 519 accidents reported, 483 involved automobiles.

Fourteen pedestrians met death from January to June, seven of the pedestrians being killed by crawling under lowered crossing gates.

The life and accident toll for the first six months of this year shows a slight decrease from that of the same period in 1928 when 86 deaths, 256 injuries and 486 accidents were reported.

DR. CHARLES G. JORDAN

Granges of western Pennsylvania will duplicate their huge picnic outing of last year at the J. Audley Book farm here by meeting at the Trees-dale farm near Mars Friday afternoon for the second annual affair of the kind.

During the past year, at the first picnic which took place in Lawrence county, more than 3,000 grangers and their friends were in attendance from 22 counties in the state.

Plenty of Room
The Treesdale farm contains some 3,500 acres of land, tennis courts, a swimming pool, ample fields for ball playing and races, so all Lawrence county grangers who are attending will find themselves away with bathing suits, rackets and tennis shoes.

The speaking program for the affair includes Dr. C. G. Jordan, state secretary of agriculture, and grange speakers will include Charles M.
Gardner, high priest of demeter; H.

master, will be unable to be present due to the condition of his health.

"ALL BALONEY," SAYS WRITER OF WOMEN'S CARE IN DRIVING

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—

bauer, Richland R. D.," a letter writer took Motor Vehicle Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon severely to task because of the latter's recent statement that the records show women drivers cause fewer fatal accidents than men.

"It is baloney," was the cor-respondent's succinct opening.
"I have been driving a car nine years and I never seen a woman driver that was as good as I am. I guess maybe you are a married man and got to say these things, but thank God I have never gave away my birthright. It is baloney."

"No comment," said Eynon.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—The bodies of Lieut. Belmont Pugh, 36, of the Wilkinsburg police force, and Miss Louise Stine, 28, said to have been a night club entertainer, were found today in Miss Stine's Wilkinsburg apartment when police, summoned by a taxicab driver who saw the women's body through a window, crashed in the door. Both had been shot to death.

Miss Stine was found lying across the bed, a bullet hole in her head. On the floor nearby lay Belmont, in full uniform. A bullet had torn its way through his brain. In his right hand was clasped a revolver, one chamber of which was empty. A short distance away as an empty shell which police said fitted into the empty chamber of the gun.

Police Are Silent
Police refused to state whether it was a case of murder and suicide or a double murder.

After a cursory examination police said that Pugh and Miss Stine had been dead at least 12 hours. Pugh had not been seen since he went off duty at 2 p. m. yesterday.

According to the story told police

Chicken Thieves Get Salty Doses In Mercer County

Salty sentences were handed out in the Mercer county court when Judge J. A. McLaughlin and before him the chicken thieves who stalked the northern end of Lawrence county and part of Mercer county some months ago.

Albert McConnell received from two to four years in the Western Penitentiary and Thomas McConnell got 7 months in the Mercer county jail.
Robert McConnell, who has just dis-served 8 months of a sentence and Scott Young who had a similar sentence, have been brought back to Lawrence county by County Detective William G. Fleming to answer charges of chicken theft here.

In the closing weeks of 1928 the farmers of the northern end of the county suffered heavy losses from theft and Mercer county farmers were similarly harassed. County Detective Fleming spent some days on the job and rounded up the entire gang with the assistance of Sheriff Francis of New Wilmington and the two earned the gratitude of Mercer county officials for their work. Since that time chicken thieves have been scarce in both counties.

Tinkham Asks For Prosecution Of Bishop Cannon

Alleges Violation Of Corrupt Practices Act In Minister's Activities

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A demand that the Department of Justice prosecute Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for violation of the corrupt practices act was laid on Attorney General Mitchell's desk today by Rep. George Holden Tinkham (R. of Massachusetts).

Attorney General Mitchell today referred Tinkham's request to the Bureau of Investigation in the department without comment. This is the usual routine procedure in cases where indictment is requested. Tinkham accuses the Bishop of having violated the federal law in his financial management of the Anti-Smith campaign in the south last election.

"Bishop Cannon," said Tinkham, "branda as absolutely false the statement that he made loans of $5,000 each to the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia until he is confronted with documentary evidence of loans made by him to this political committee of which he is chairman, and advancements for its account aggregating more than $27,000."

"Then he admits loans, and in an effort to reconcile this admission with his previous denial, he falls back upon the explanation that all loans were made by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., personally, and not as an officer of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

"He leaves unanswered the question that was asked him which lies at the heart of the matter, namely, from what source did he obtain the large sums which between August and September, 1928, he loaned to the anti-Smith Democratic Committee?" It is Tinkham's contention that Cannon financed the activities of the anti-Smith committee with loans from the church board, and violated the corrupt practices act by not filing a return with the clerk of the House, as other political organizations are required to do.

I. A. L. championship. Prospects look mighty good unless the Beaver Falls detectives uncover a few more alleged violations of the law.

New Castle next December will play host to one of the largest conventions of the state. Approximately 5,000 school teachers and educators who comprise the Pennsylvania State Educational association will gather here for several days. Plans for accommodating and entertaining the visitors have already been started.

A certain group of Scioto street lads are enjoying this week at the Y. M. C. A. camp at the expense of certain local organizations. Generous business men, New Castle churches and the members of a Y fraternity, here have made the outing possible. These underprivileged boys get the regular camp training as taught to Y boys.

Reports are that contractors are grading the field back of the George Washington junior high school. It is the plan of school authorities to make the spacious grounds which surround the new building as presentable as possible.

Rumblings for new railroad stations here are still audible at meetings of New Castle's civic organizations. The city is entitled to improvements and must get them. A considerable change is being made at one of the local depots while at the other no move for betterment has been seen.

The West Washington street paving is a real job. Soon New Castle will have another thoroughfare to be proud of. The work at present stands completed but the street cannot be opened for several days. Street cars will run over the new tracks to the city line for the first time on Saturday.

Local rivers are now at their lowest stage of the summer. The official reading for the Shenango shows a depth of 3.9 feet at the New Castle water works at which point it has remained now for almost a week.

The minimum recording thermometer at the water works has become broken and it is necessary to secure the minimum temperature for the day by hourly readings on an ordinary thermometer. A new one has been ordered from the government and will be here in a few days.

The yellow caution light at the East Washington-Mill intersection has been replaced by a red light. Officials installed the light Tuesday. The new plan gives pedestrians crossing the street more time and will bring a stop to the practice of some motorists breaking through under the yellow signal.

Railroads constantly strive to improve safety first upon their employees. In a local freight office there is a sign which reads: "Don't Get Hurt." The warning is printed in three different languages.

People who were opposed to tearing out the Rosena Dam on the grounds that the banks would be littered with garbage from apartments along the creek, may be surprised to note that very little refuse can be found along the bank of the stream near the bridge. There are plenty of boxes and pieces of debris lying in the channel, however, where the current is not strong enough to carry them away. They will remain there until the next high water comes along.

W. C. T. U. The W. C. T. U. meeting was held in the North Grange hall Thursday evening. The men had charge of this meeting and the following program was given.

After the program the committee in charge served ice cream, cake and coffee.

Chinese Women Long For The U. S. A.

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—Chinese women have gone "Hollywood." Princess Der Ling, a daughter of the Manchu dynasty and wife of an American engineer, declared today in describing the feminine revolt in China, "The Chinese flapper may or may be, which has mere matter of not wear occidental clothing, but she is almost certain to have a pair of high laced shoes." "Her hair is bobbed. Her dress may reach the knees or may not, and her manners are the straight-from-the-shoulder type found in the United States."

The princess came here to be near her American husband, Thaddeus R. White, to write and to rear her son as a "regular fellow."

Argus, the many-eyed monster of mythology, has nothing on the drone of the Chinese flapper.

Trading Active In Stock Market

Industrial and Utility Stocks
See-Saw Back And Forth
In Early Trading

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Industrial stocks and utilities see-sawed over a narrow price range in fairly active trading today, with the steel and copper shares gradually forging to the front. Bears who "tested out" the market found the bulls too strongly entrenched to risk another assault on values, even though a score or more active utility and specialty stocks have scored 25 to 50 points and are therefore in top-heavy position in the market.

Big bulls in Wall Street selected U. S. Steel as their leader in a vigorous forward move, which started shortly after the noon period. Steel was whipped ahead to above 215 1/2 up 4 points and establishing a new high price for all time. Bethlehem duplicated its former peak price of 125 as rumors of an extra cash dividend in addition to the regular 6 per cent payment flashed through Wall Street. Higher prices were also quoted.

Heat and finals of the 100 meter free style competition and the diving championship will be held this afternoon and tonight.

Longview and Lumber.

Tacoma and Power.

Slaughtering Forests.

Considerable Bolshevism.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE (Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.)

LONGVIEW, Wash., Aug. 7.—Six years ago, when he was 72 years old, A. A. Long, of Kansas City, decided that the Pacific Coast needed another city. He built it here at the mouth of the Columbia River, where ships come to take his lumber all over the world.

There are fifteen thousand people here, a monthly payroll of $500,000, with 25 industries in addition to lumber. The two biggest lumber mills in the world are here. Mr. Long's mill turns out 2,000,000 board feet of lumber a day. The Weyerhaeuser mill, 1,500,000. When you drive along this Pacific Coast, 1,000 miles or so, be sure to stop here. You will find a modern city, beautifully planned, streets wide, people cheerful, most of them young. To enjoy themselves, they put on lumberjack costumes, overalls, boots, bright red hats, worn by men in the woods, and sing.

Three young ladies from Seattle provide the accompaniment. One, very thin, plays the violin and shakes from head to foot. One, not so thin, plays the violincello; one between the two, plays the piano, and in the evening, that instrument knows it has done a day's work. No namby-pamby music out here.

Magnificent state, magnificent forests, and the forests are vanishing. In Chicago's slaughter houses they do not let you see the killing of sheep and lambs. Too sad, when the poor creatures' throats are cut. They do let you see the slaughtering of these magnificent forests. There is a crash, a fir tree 14 feet in diameter, 200 feet high, falls to the ground.

"Such a tree," said Gov. Hartley, of Washington, Monday morning, "is fourteen hundred years old. It cannot be replaced. Civilization and commercial timber cannot live side by side."

Let us hope that this wasteful human race, slaughtering everything, including itself, will develop a civilization able to protect the forests that are most beautiful of all things on earth. We are only 12,000 years from the stone age, and we have, science tells us, much more than 100,000,000 years of life ahead of us. Time enough to let the trees grow again.

In the magnificent capital at Olympia, finest in the country, Gov. Hartley, himself a "logger" all his life, said Monday: "We are cutting three trees, twenty years to the end of this century. As far as stands of virgin timber are concerned, competition, unwise legislation and taxation are to blame."

Today there is being left upon the ground and fed to the flames enough lumber to supply the present competitive demand of the trade. Operators cannot utilize the lower grades and survive.

Hauling huge logs to the railroad by steam or electric power, says Gov. Hartley, thousands of trees are knocked down and splintered that would be considered magnificent timber logs in Maine or Minnesota. Under the law all this must be burned, to avoid forest fires. That the Lord spares this wasteful country is proof of his infinite patience.

This article was to have been all about Portland, Oregon's wonderful city, and about Tacoma, where 125,000 intelligent Americans actually run a city for its people, and not for corporations.

But you cannot drive fifty miles less two hundred and fifty miles along this coast, without seeing enough for one hundred columns.

Tacoma prospers, because its hydraulic power plants are used to build up Tacoma, not to enrich power company stockholders in New York. Tacoma owns its light and power plants and sells power more cheaply than any place on the continent, outside of Canada. They have brains in Canada, also, and honest officials.

The price for Tacoma's current is $21 per electric horsepower per year. In some cases as low as $15 per year. The first privately owned plant paid for itself quickly, then made money to pay for the second plant.

Do these plants pay well? Yes, more than $900,000 in cash to the city every year, and that goes to build magnificent public schools. Seven new junior high schools were built recently. That's better than sending money east to help rascals buy newspapers to poison the public mind.

Cash profit is a small part of Tacoma's earnings from public ownership well run. Cheap power brings in big industries. They bring pay rolls.

The Hooker Chemical Company of New York wanted a plant on this coast, and Brookhaven, publisher of the Portland Telegram, thought it was all arranged for Portland.

But Mr. Hooker heard of Tacoma's price for power. It meant a saving.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:08. Sun rises tomorrow 5:04.

When you hear a stranger say he has "a good thing" be careful that he doesn't mean you.

A West Virginia lady, who is 94 years old, has been pinched four times for peddling hooch. She surely is old enough to know better. Anyhow, the police think something should be done about it.

MUTINY COMPLETE
 Dame Fashion tells us that the girls must let their hair grow long. Again revealing flowing curls. Described in ancient song.

There was a time when such a word as "obedience" would bring. But now, in horror we have heard. It doesn't mean a thing!

The boyish haircut still is there. The girl asserts her sway. And doesn't even seem to care. What? Fashion has to say!

You never hear of men earning 40 cents an hour figuring on striking for an eight-hour day, and five-day week. There are millions more of this kind of workers than any other kind and there is going to be trouble when they are heard from.

It's getting so these days that after highway men rob people of all their valuables they also take off their clothes so they cannot pursue them. Robbers and crooks seem to be the smartest humans we have any more.

Looks like the underworld is on top in some cities.

IT'S A TOUGH BREEZE THAT DOESN'T BLOW SOMEBODY SOMETHING

While some men lament: When the weather is so bad They can't sell Straw hats. Other men are overjoyed That the weather Doesn't make It necessary to buy 'em.

It is claimed that golf is becoming the young man's game now as well as the old man's sport. We can already see many corridors in this country being turned into golf courses. We would rather have "the roaring ears" at that.

"Opened by Mistake" is often the alibi of the ultra-curious.

There are two things we do not do on Sunday. One is writing this column and the other is playing golf. No doubt some think we ought to cut both out on week days also.

He: "Don't you think it is getting chilly?" She (resignedly): "Oh, all right, go ahead and put your arm around me."

Many a man would be an ideal husband if he didn't eat with his knife and insist on carrying away samples of the meal on his shirtfront.

While a champion lady wrestler, whatever that is—was walking along the streets of Chicago she was attacked by a man. She grabbed him by both ears and rubbed his nose on the sidewalk until the police came galloping up. That bird evidently had his head for just keeping his ears from rubbing together.

Some folks can lie and make it sound like the truth, while others can't tell the truth without making it sound like a lie.

Mr. Freshwed: "This is an extra fine steak, dear." Mrs. Freshwed: "Glad you like it honey. I'll save a sample and see if I can't match it for Sunday."

Anyhow, th' kid who's watchin' a ball game through a knothole ain't in much danger of gettin' hit by a pop bottle aimed at the umpire.

No woman can be made to believe her husband loves her if he refuses to let her get just what she wants just because they would have to go in debt for it.

TODAY'S STORYETTE
 This man employed a stenographer who was none too careful of her personal appearance. She was really slovenly. Come Christmas time and she asked the boss what he was going to put in her stocking. And he promptly replied: "About half a bushel of chloride of lime." All ashore!

If pajamas ever get popular for men to wear on the street, some other means for holding them up will have to be provided. And they are so light one can hardly tell whether they are on or not.

Personal Qualities Of New Ambassador To France Believed By Many To Promise Success As Herrick's Successor

While the appointment of Senator Walter Evans Edge of New Jersey as ambassador to France to succeed the late Ambassador Herrick, subject to confirmation by the Senate, does not receive unanimous approval, there is a widespread and friendly comment upon his qualifications of intellect and personality, well wishes in the new field of endeavor.

"So far as Senator Edge personally is concerned his elevation will be received with varying opinions, but even those who disagree with him politically will admit that he has been a forceful figure in public life at both Trenton and Washington," says the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL.

In naming him, the President has made a "highly practical appointment" according to the viewpoint of the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, which describes him as having "none of the picturesque, commanding personality which is the mark of the sentimental qualities of Herrick," and concludes that "at Paris he will represent business rather than the sentiment which has marked relationship between French and American people ever since the American Revolution."

The MANCHESTER UNION is of the opinion that "very likely he shall hear laments that this is a return to the school of 'dollar diplomacy' and suggests that 'in the sense that the President desires to see increased business with other countries along with maintenance of amicable relations, perhaps the term will not be amiss.'"

The PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN sees an administration desire "to have in the chief missions abroad men capable of properly estimating the value of the sentimental business and industrial relations play in international intercourse."

"Inasmuch as Mr. Hoover throughout his public career has been exceptionally fortunate in choosing his co-workers, it may be taken for granted his appointment of Senator Edge meets his requirements in every particular," and that the President has perceived in the appointee "qualities that fit him to undertake the duties of one of the most exacting diplomatic posts."

The HARTFORD DAY COURANT, indeed, Senator Edge "will go to the French capital with the prestige of having occupied an important place in American public life and his role as the spokesman of the President in the United States Senate has heightened this distinction," says the BOSTON TRANScriber.

This is the thought, too, of the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, which notes that the appointee is "in full sympathy with the ideas of Mr. Hoover, and will be able to interpret the administration to the French without prompting." With the additional comment that "he is comparatively rich and can afford the place."

The ROANOKE TIMES agrees that he has been on friendly terms with the present administration "from the outset." His position in the administration is emphasized by the ASBURY PARK PRESS and the HAVERTHILL GAZETTE.

It is on the question of wealthy American diplomats that comments of various kinds are found. The "lost civilizations" of opinion regarding the use of the service and promotion on his merits," asserts the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, but this paper agrees that "such procedure is virtually impossible, owing to the rigidity salaries the richest nation in the world pays its envoys. Paris like London and Paris are costly to their incumbents and only wealthy men can afford to hold them." It concludes:

"Choosing only rich men to represent our democratic republic in other countries may not seem wholly appropriate to some," says the CLEVELAND NEWS, which expresses its belief in the democratic nature of such men, especially if self-made, and remarks that "it should also be remembered that large matters of international importance have been decided between the United States and European countries as one consequence of the war not yet forgotten."

The LANSING STATE JOURNAL considers it important that "America is taking vastly more interest in her ambassadors than was once the case," and extends its good wishes to the Senator.

Opportunity to extol the late Ambassador Herrick is rarely made use of on this occasion of the appointment of his successor, by many of the editors of the country. "Mr. Edge will have a high standard to maintain if he comes up to the measure of ability and popularity enjoyed by his predecessor, the late Myron T. Herrick," says the SALT LAKE TRIBUNE.

Desiring NEWS, in similar vein, speaks INDIANAPOLIS NEWS: "He is a genuine affection for Herrick, and that his successor must measure up to the standards France has learned to expect from this nation."

On this subject the COLUMBUS

OHIO STATE JOURNAL remarks: "Among men of power and of a different temperament from Mr. Herrick, Senator Edge is not apt to make the same kind of ambassador as the Ohioan, but there is every reason to believe that he can fill the post to the satisfaction of both countries and with credit to himself." Even though the ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE sees Senator Edge as a "different type from Mr. Herrick," in fact, "a lighter, usually ready, argument and none too diplomatic when it comes to expressing his convictions," it expects him to make good.

As to his preparation for these important duties, the SCRANTON TIMES refers to his "ten years" in the United States Senate as a "helpful factor in his new post." The ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT, in its "pleasant personality" and "his 'savoir faire,' so important in the 'sophisticated capital of France,'" the WORCESTER TELEGRAM notes that "he has lived in France, he speaks French. He knows and likes the French people and understands their ways, and yet is 'vigilantly American.'"

The fact that he is outstanding in his comprehension of problems of finance" appeals to the EL PASO HERALD, since "financial relations between France and the United States are only second to diplomatic relations."

"In some respects he will make an even better ambassador," according to the LEXINGTON LEADER, will "stand very high in the affections of the French people in the opinion of the ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE, and to the Charlotte OBSERVER represents the "expert rather than the politician."

THE NON-RESISTANT

They live in the shrewdest manner. I had not supposed that anyone in the remotest corner of the world men could make such an absolute departure from what we call civilization. They abjure completely all personal gain. They allow themselves nothing which has been produced by the pain of any human being. They wear no leather shoes because the hides have been taken from animals that have been slain. They go through most of the year, and in winter they wear their feet in sandals. Their clothes have no buttons, but are held together by hooks and eyes or by great pins. They sleep on plain boards covered with straw. They would not be able to sleep on ticks filled with feathers plucked from the bodies of the fowls. There is, however, a distinction of opinion regarding the use of eggs and milk. Some will not eat these young cockerels are killed off. And a few refuse to drink milk because it was designed by nature for calves.

These Tolstoians cause the government no end of worry by refusing to participate in any state affairs. They even decline to pay taxes. Of course, this is a serious matter, and a kind of military service. They will not even do sanitary duty, because that would mean the release of some other man to do the killing. They will not give testimony in courts or have anything to do with lawyers.

And this Bolshevist government which has terrorized and ruled with an iron hand everywhere, finds these Tolstoians still unbroken. The Bolsheviks are baffled. They put them in prison accomplishes nothing. To make martyrs of them simply causes more of their faith to spring up. What can you do with a non-resistance anyway?

These disciples of Tolstoy say that

TO A CHILD

Little girl, just seven years old. All your world is shining gold. All your skies are summer blue. Brightly smiles the sun on you. And the little cures you know. Swiftly come and swiftly go. Broken toys may bring a tear. Bright balloons may disappear. But when night-time comes you say: "Wasn't it a happy day?"

Little girl, just seven years old. Childhood's joys are manifold. But as older you shall grow. Greater cares you'll come to know. Bitter griefs than broken toys. Will arise to spoil your joys. And like bright balloons, I fear. Will your best dreams disappear. But I trust you still will say: "Wasn't it a happy day?"

District Attorney Charges Moose With Contempt

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 7.—As a result of the alleged violations of the stipulations of the preliminary injunction granted on September 4, 1928, against the trustees and chief of the Moose Lodge of Farrell, District Attorney Leo McKay, filed a petition Monday morning asking that Henry Stitt, John Davis and Robert Redfoot, trustees, and John Kiefer, the chief, be held in contempt of court, and that attachments be issued for their arrest, which was granted.

County Detective Sam Leyschack alleged in an affidavit accompanying the petition that on January 12 he visited the lodge and found the doors barred, and that it was some time before they were opened, and when he was admitted there was a strong odor of liquor, but that none was found in May or June he visited the club and the same conditions existed. On July 27 he visited the club, when he was finally admitted he smelt liquor and succeeded in mopping enough from the floor to have an analysis made.

The county Commissioners Office have announced that they will redeem three hundred bonds of $300 denomination of the issue of 1916, being numbered 94, 95, and 96 and 16 bonds of denomination of $1,000 being numbered 207 to 222 inclusive. These bonds should be presented for redemption not later than September 1 as interest will cease at that date.

A meeting of Pennsylvania Threshmen and Farmer Protective Association will be held in the assembly room of the court house Saturday, August 10. O. P. Griffin is the president of the Mercer County Branch.

News Of Interest For Local Welsh

National Elsteddof Is Occurring
This Week At Liverpool, England

By W. A. JOHNS, BRYTHON
Mrs. John Evans, of South Mill street, was called to Youngstown, O., this week by the sudden death of the daughter of Mrs. Daniel E. Davies.

New Castle Welsh are very glad to hear of the recovery of Rev. and Mrs. Clifford Joshua and family following their auto accident near Erie recently. Rev. Joshua was formerly pastor at the Emanuel Baptist church of this city.

Word has been received here from David T. Johns of Swansea, South Wales, telling that business conditions are very slow there at the present time. Mr. Johns also spoke of the jamboree scout camp at Arrow Park, England, stating that it was a very beautiful sight.

The pension system in Wales for those over 65 years of age is now in effect. I have a brother who will draw his 10 shillings per week very soon and also get 15 shillings per week from the company with which he is employed and from which he will be retired soon.

The national Elsteddof of Wales is occurring this week at Liverpool, and many Welsh Americans are in attendance. The Soranton mixed choir, known here, are there and hope is expressed they will be awarded first prize.

Oregon Pastor At First Baptist

Outstanding Minister Of The North West To Preach
Here Sunday Morning

Rev. William Robbins, pastor of the First Baptist church of Pendleton, Ore., will preach next Sunday at both the morning and evening services in the First Baptist church, corner of East and North streets, during the absence of the pastor, Rev. George M. Landis, who is enjoying his annual vacation.

Rev. Pendleton is a classmate of Rev. Landis. He is one of the outstanding young preachers of the Northwest. On a number of occasions he lectured in the Western Theological Seminary of Portland. Mr. Robbins' name appeared in the press of the country some time ago when he visited the prison in Pendleton and dealt with the young criminal, Hickman.

It is anticipated that a large congregation will be present to hear him in this city on Sunday.

Fraternity To Visit At Camp

New Castle Phalanx fraternity fellows will go to the Y. M. C. A. camp on the Slippery Rock creek Friday night to visit the 20 Sciota street boys who are spending the entire week there. The fraternity underwrites a large portion of the underprivileged boys' camp expense.

A general social time will be in vogue with swimming and mousball featuring.

Booster Club Will Not Meet Tonight

No meetings will be held during the month of August by the members of the New Castle Booster Club, who voted to suspend operations during the current month at their last meeting.

Plans are being made to get underway during the early part of September when a busy program for October and winter months will be mapped out by the club leaders.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

The British were powerless to deal with Gandhi up to that time when he yielded to pressure and consented to the use of force by the Hindu. Once the Hindus resorted to force it was easy for the British to deal with them. So these Tolstians seem to be the only people in Russia whose rights cannot be taken away from them, because they will assert no rights.

They are philosophers, all. And one can imagine what lively debates they must have as they gather about the fire in the center of the common room in the evenings of the long Russian winter. Nearly all of them came from distant corners of the Russian land each having arrived independently at his position before he had ever ready anything about Tolstol.

They are not, as one might imagine, physical weaklings. One of the leaders is a strapping young fellow standing six feet three inches in his bare feet, with shoulders like an ox, a fine head and a great shock of red hair. He would be an outstanding figure on any college campus, and a star on any college football team. How I would like to be a quarterback and call the signal for those sinewy limbs to carry that stalwart body through the line! But I would hate to be the man to have to try to stop him!

Another young fellow—one who will drink no milk—is built like a bull moose, and would be the kind of lineman to open a gaping hole in the opposing line for our giant back to plunge through.

These young giants have also foregone the use of tobacco, alcohol and coffee. And finer physical specimens I have never seen anywhere. I have attended some meetings of the Tolstians in the outskirts of Moscow, where the police could not find them. They are like gatherings of the early Christians in the catacombs, or like those Pilgrims in Scrooby who were hounded from place to place, meeting in garrets and barns. Whatever may happen to those Tolstians eventually, I can promise this: that they will not be made to conform.

Cinderella

and the Three proud cigarette brands

A Modern Fable

Once upon a time a Mighty Prince set forth to find a perfect cigarette. Being very wise, he netted down his search to the four National favorites... that quartette of popular sister brands known as the "20 for 15¢" family. The three elder cigarette brands rushed forward to meet the Prince with all the proud pomp in the world... each vying with the other in urging her charms upon him.

"Smoke me!" said the eldest, "I am the class of the field."

"Smoke me!" said the second, "for I am beyond compare."

"Smoke me!" said the third, "all the world acknowledges me to be the best."

Then, from the background, the youngest brand... the Cinderella of the family... quietly spoke up. "If you please, Sir," she suggested, "why not smoke all four of us... and compare us fairly and impartially, letting your taste decide which one of us you like best?"

"Why, that's a common sense ideal!" exclaimed His Highness. Whereupon he covered the names of all four brands with paper masks, lit them and smoked them reflectively, with all brand prejudice removed.

One cigarette seemed to capture his fancy, far and beyond the others. "I don't know which cigarette this is," he declared, "but, unquestionably, it is the cigarette for me." Whereupon he removed the mask and found it to be... Well, Cinderella is the "storybook" name but in America today that winning brand is known as OLD GOLD.

MORAL: It is easy to make big claims, but you can't smoke claims. The only sound way to discover the cigarette you like best is to let your taste decide.

75% OF BUSINESS GIRLS WASH DISHES AT HOME—

Survey Shows They Wash Dishes One Way to Keep Hands Lovely

In the world's largest office building, in New York, a recent survey of business girls showed 75% had home duties, including dishes to wash.

Almost without exception these busy girls say that washing dishes actually helps them to keep their hands lovely and white for the office—because they use Lux in the dishpan. Nine out of every ten asked wash their dishes with Lux.

As Miss Elsy Stephens, private secretary to the vice-president of a large company, says:

"I find that Lux in the dishpan keeps my hands looking lovely—and of course in my position it is important that my hands look dainty and well cared for. The Lux suds feel so soothing and bland, and my hands always look smoother and whiter after washing dishes than before. I really like to wash dishes for that reason—for with Lux your hands get beauty care right in the dishpan."

Victory For Dairy Interests Seen In Tariff Rate Raise

Senate Increases Rate After House Ignores Plea For Protection

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—The action of the Republican members of the senate finance committee in raising the house tariff rates on casein, milk, cream, skimmed milk and poultry is regarded here as a distinct victory for dairy interests.

The committee has increased the present rate on casein from 24 cents to 31 cents a pound, and this is seen as an especial victory for dairy interests in view of the fact that the house ignored their pleas for increased protection and refused to raise the casein tariff.

Not content with reversing the action of the house on casein, however, the finance committee has increased the duty on milk from five cents as written by the house to 6 1/2 cents a gallon, and has increased the house rate on cream from 48 cents to 55 cents a gallon.

A further increase written by the senate committee is seen in the duty of 21-26 cents a gallon on skimmed milk, fresh or sour, and buttermilk. The house had placed this duty at 13-14 cents a gallon.

The senate committee has accepted the house duty of ten cents a dozen on eggs, but increased the house rate on chickens, ducks, geese and guineas from six to eight cents a pound.

Ten Violators Of Liquor Laws Are Given Heavy Fines

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation.

Pennsylvania Has Many Physicians

Stands Second In Nation In Regard To Number Of Practitioners In State

By ARTHUR C. WIMER, Special Washington Correspondent of New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—Although Pennsylvania ranks second in the nation in the number of physicians within the state boundaries, and sixth in the number of physicians per 100 square miles, it ranks twenty-first in the number per 10,000 population, a medical education survey conducted by the department of the interior reveals.

Physicians in Pennsylvania number 11,403, or an average of 11.72 doctors for every 10,000 residents and 25.44 per 100 square miles of area, according to the interior department report.

New York leads the nation in the number of physicians, with 18,534 practicing doctors. California, however, has the greatest number in proportion to population, with 19.87 physicians per 10,000 population, and Massachusetts with 17.65, leads in the number of doctors per 100 square miles.

Electric Power Use Increases

Survey Reveals Huge Increase In Electric Power Production In Pennsylvania

By ARTHUR C. WIMER, Special Washington Correspondent of New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—A substantial increase in industrial activity in Pennsylvania is perhaps indicated by the geological survey of the department of the interior, which reveals that the production of electric power by public utility power plants within the state was 19 per cent greater during June than in the same month a year ago.

The public utility power plants of Pennsylvania produced a total of 643,324,000 kilowatt-hours of electric power in June, according to the report. Of this total production, 575,027,000 kilowatt-hours were produced by fuels and only 68,297,000 kilowatts by water power during the month.

Pennsylvania's public utility power plants consumed 4,890,000 cubic feet of natural gas, 463,868 short tons of coal, and 1,000 barrels of fuel oil in the production of electricity during June.

Pennsylvania's total production of power by public utility power plants during the month was exceeded by New York, which produced 1,311,017,000 kilowatt-hours, 669,500,000 kilowatts of which were produced by fuels and 461,517,000 kilowatts by water power. New York's percentage increase in output over June of last year was only 10 per cent, however, as compared to the Keystone state's increase of 19 per cent.

Canada Increases Milk Shipments

Tariff Rate Increase Fails To Halt Inflow Of Canadian Products

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—Despite the fact that the President recently declared a fifty per cent increase of tariff rates on milk and cream, effective June 13, imports of milk and cream into this country from Canada continue to increase and in June were almost double the May imports and were well above the imports of June 1928, the department of agriculture reports.

Shipments of milk and cream from Canada into the United States in June totaled 1,126,438 gallons, of which 488,304 gallons were cream and the remaining 638,134 gallons milk, according to the agriculture department.

In making public the report on the increase shipment of milk and cream from Canada into this country, the agriculture department describes the situation as "an important development from the point of view of direct foreign competition in our markets for dairy products."

French Aviator Severely Hurt

(International News Service) BORDEAUX, Aug. 7.—Lieut. Bonnet, famous French aviator who was to pilot the French entry in the Schneider cup races to be held in England next month, was probably fatally injured Tuesday when a plane he was piloting crashed at the Hour-tin Aerodrome near here.

Bonnet, according to witnesses, was looping his plane when it suddenly dived to the earth. He was extricated from the wreckage and rushed to a hospital. He has little chance for recovery.

Bonnet was holder of the world's speed for land planes.

SNAIL IS SEALED IN

Dawdler laughed at Peter's fear lest the two snails who were still unvanquished would force their way into the hive.

"There's no danger of that now," said he. "They have seen what happened to their leader and they will be afraid to poke out their heads. We will push them out into the street and unbind them there. This fellow will have to be unbound inside here, though. He is too heavy to drag very far. And, besides, he will stand forever as a monument to your valor and to our brave fight against so horrible a creature."

Peter did find that the fat snail was very heavy indeed. He and the bees tried with their might and main to move him, but were barely able to push him to one side, so that he would not block up the passage. They tied themselves out and then decided to leave him right there.

A great number of bees swarmed up, and taking lumps of wax from out of the pockets on their bodies they moistened this and made it soft by rolling it about in their mouths. Then drawing out little tools from the basins on their legs they pressed down this wax at different places all over the snail's fat body and shell. So many of them were working together and they kept changing places with each other so often that it hardly seemed any time at all before Peter saw before him the strangest sort of a monument. He would never have known what it was if he had not watched the bees at work.

"There," said Dawdler at last, "that's done, and there is one more enemy who will never hurt our babies. Isn't he finely sealed up?"

"I don't know very much about it," said Peter, "but he looks forever out of the way to me. Will you please tell me why they took all the trouble to cover him with wax? He could never have done any more damage."

"Yes, he could, my friend," interrupted Whizz. "If he stayed as he was he would have poisoned the hive."

Next: "Whizz Bosses Peter."

Capital Officials Suffer Injuries

(International News Service) ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 7.—D. B. Barton of the postoffice department, Washington, D. C., and L. Sykes of 1113 Thirteenth St. N. W., Washington, were injured Tuesday when the car in which they were riding left the road and plunked into a ditch along the Lincoln Highway four miles east of Bedford.

They were taken to Timmons hospital, Bedford. Their car was demolished. Neither is reported to have been seriously hurt.

"This year I'm keeping our old car, as a second car, instead of trading it in."

"MY family is large enough to need two cars. This year I'm going to keep my old car instead of trading it in on the new one. Of course trading it in would make a difference in the cost of the new one. But that's outweighed many times by the convenience a second car will mean to us—and our old car is good for years more."

"I am enlarging my garage to make room for two cars. But that's a good investment in itself because it will increase the value of my property and make it easier to sell."

A used car is unused transportation

General Motors suggests that you keep your old car when you buy a new one. More and more families are doing it each year. That is a reason why the number of two-car families has jumped from 300,000 to over 3,000,000 in ten years. Used cars have years of unused transportation in them; years of satisfactory performance. And the GMAC low-cost plan of purchase makes it easy to pay comfortably for the new car while you enjoy its use.

Blind Boy Is High Point Man At Camp

Victor Wagner, blind Boy Scout of this city, led the entire group of near-90 scouts at Camp Phillips on Tuesday by winning a total of 175 points. Wagner, harmonica player, is a member of Elk troop 5 of this city and is an achievement scout. Points were awarded for activities in scoutcraft at the camp during the day.

Weather was a trifle cold for swimming Tuesday but the chilly waters did not daunt a group of the boys who styled themselves "the dirty dozen." Whether or not the boys really needed a bath will never be known but they claimed they enjoyed the morning swim and were on deck again in the afternoon when swimming call blew. The scouts in camp this period are a peppy crew and represent troops from New Castle, Ellwood City, New Wilmington, Wampum and New Brighton.

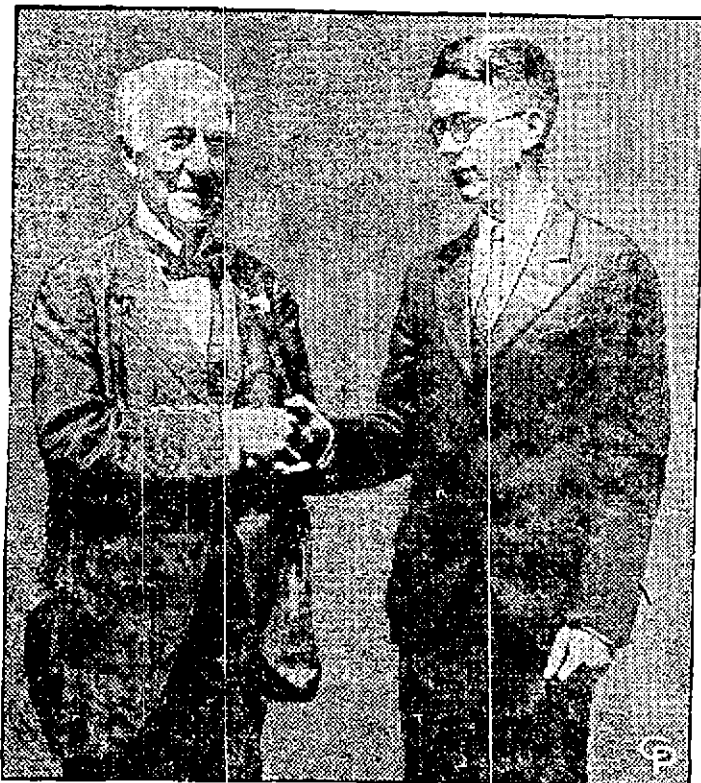

Points for the first day indicate that at least eight boys will be in the running for the achievement emblem at the end of the two-week period. The boys are Harold Aggas, Frank Davis, Bud Gordon, Tom Hawkins, Paul Mills, George Thorne, Vic Wagner and Jack Ziegler.

Captain John Lawther has challenged the best tennis player in camp to a match game and so many of the scouts were convinced that they were made of championship calibre that it will be necessary for Camp Director Norton to arrange a tournament to decide just who will play against Lawther.

Leslie Wins, Mac Leslie, leader of the Kit Carson stockade, comes to the front again as inspection winner with his scouts in Cubs but who are John Ekleberger, Paul Mills, Mike Quinn, Bernard Carlin and Joe Frazier.

Evening color guards were Bob Dwyer, Jim Taylor and Frank Davis. Lions Fond Of Baby Talk, Reveals Famous Trainer Who Hypnotizes 'Em

By GEORGE C. GALLATI International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Lions like baby talk.

Lions also like to be addressed in the German language, and they sometimes become so consumed with curiosity that they forget to be hard-boiled and act like any house-cat.

The phenomenal secrets of the private life of the king of beasts were revealed here by Labero, the hypnotic lion tamer and vaudeville performer.

For the past six years Labero has been hypnotizing lions, alligators, rabbits, owls and chickens. Before then he used to hypnotize human beings. It doesn't sound any too complimentary but Labero says they are easier to put under the spell than creatures lower down on the animal tree.

"I never use a gun or a whip in a lion's cage," said the tamer. "I use a three-legged stool. There is a psychological reason for that. Most lions know what a gun or a whip is. But few of them, if any, are familiar with the intricacies of a three-legged stool. They become so overwhelmed with curiosity that they just stand and look."

Labero talks to his lions like an indulgent but firm papa talks to his offspring.

"Be gentle," says he. "Be nice to papa. Don't bite." All this is spoken in German. His animals decline to accept English as their official language. The other day, he said, one of the lions had him by the knee. Those jaws were about to close and grind together. "Dass muss ich machen," said Herr Labero, and the lion didn't.

Rain And Cold Weather Bothers Cavalry Guardsmen

(International News Service) WITH THE 52ND CAVALRY BRIGADE, ENROUTE THROUGH LEANON COUNTY, Pa., Aug. 7.—The second day of the 52nd Cavalry Brigade's march Tuesday found the 1800 mounted soldiers under command of Brigadier General Edward C. Shannon, of Columbia, Pa., divided into two columns, advancing through the Blue Mountains, to repulse an enemy attack.

The left column, comprised of the 104th Cavalry, under Col. Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., of Harrisburg, marched nearly eleven miles through Manada Gap, over mountainous roads. The 103rd Cavalry and Headquarters troops, comprising the right column and led by Brigadier General Edward C. Shannon, Brigadier Commander took a different road and covered a like distance, through Indian-town Gap.

Both columns moved in a northerly direction, the left column preparing to encamp this afternoon in fields along Manada Creek, between Blue Mountain and Second Mountain, and five miles away from the right column which will bivouac at St. Joseph's Springs.

The entire brigade shivered in pup tents Monday night and a light drizzle beat down upon the soldiers as they arose to begin the second day of the march. The temperature dropped to forty degrees above zero Monday night and, what with the chill and the drizzle, breaking camp was a thankless task.

Patterson reading the 19th Psalm. Orchestra played "Blessed be the tie that binds." Prayer by Rev. Cheeseman. Two selections were played by orchestra, and Mrs. Martha Patterson, Mrs. Frank Cooper and Mrs. Jennie Moore sang. New Wilmington Pulaski Road Is Being Pushed

NEW WILMINGTON, Aug. 7.—Progress on the New Wilmington-Pulaski road improvement work was featured yesterday by the closing of the road to traffic until the new pavement will be completed.

Grading and other work preparatory to the laying of the concrete is now being rushed by the contractors. The start of the new pavement will be at the New Wilmington end of the road. No time for the completion of the five mile stretch has been set, but it is expected that it will be in use before the snow flies.

With the coming of several hundred young people to attend the Missionary Conference here now, the facilities of New Wilmington's swimming pool have been taxed to their utmost. Despite the cool weather and the crowded conditions, the visiting young folks enjoy a dip in the pool every afternoon.

Football hopes at Westminster College remain the same as they were last spring despite the fact that the start of training camp is less than one month distant. Still without any outstanding players to fill the shoes of last year's graduated stars, Coach Beede will have a tough problem in turning out a winning combination.

Veteran backfield stars such as Campbell, Holzapfel, and Hall and veteran linemen such as Captain Boone, Dombrowski, Fuller, Tweedie, and Pipoly will brace the chances of the Blue. But reserves are needed.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

To Be Moderate Is Not to Gorge or to Undereat

A noted food authority states that attacks on candy lack a background of scientific insight. He reminds us that in addition to sugar, the best candies and confections of the present day contain also many other foods. He enumerates nuts, milk, cream, butter, gelatine, chocolate, and fruits, as being used along with sugar in delicious, modern candies. And he says that good candy as a dessert may become a wholesome part of a meal. Who, he asks, would deprive the world of one of its most delicious desserts?

Science and common sense are restoring sanity to the nation today. Don't gorge. Don't undereat. Prepare a great variety of all healthful candies. Flavor them so that they will be delightful to the taste. Those are some of the present-day precepts that will guide us to a better diet.

If a dash of sugar will encourage your family to eat cereals, fresh, canned and stewed fruits, and milk in the form of milk drinks and milk desserts, then—in the name of health—use a dash of sugar. Try a dash of sugar when cooking vegetables in a small amount of water, and you will be surprised at how much fresher, more colorful and more delicious the vegetables are. A little sugar sprinkled here and there throughout the meal will encourage children and adults to eat the varied diet that is so necessary to health. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Anglo-American Naval Pact Not Near Agreement

Wide Gulf Exists Over Cruiser Question, Dawes-MacDonald Conference Reveals

ARE IN ACCORD ON ALL OTHER CLASSES

British Unable To Sense Justice Of American Program Of Cruiser Parity

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Despite the "substantial progress" which invariably is reported after each Dawes-MacDonald naval conference in London, a gulf exists between Great Britain and the United States on the cruiser question.

What progress has been made toward the projected Anglo-American naval agreement has been along lines other than cruisers. So far as this controversial element of the situation is concerned, the two governments are about as far apart as they ever were. This was ascertained today from most authoritative sources. As regards capital ships, submarines and other classes of fighting craft, there exists pretty general accord. The British are just as anxious as President Hoover to save money on replacement of capital ships at some $45,000,000 per ship. Both are willing to extend the life of present battleships and probably decrease their size when replacement time comes. Both are willing to give up submarines, provided the other naval powers, France, Italy and Japan, consent to join with them.

Deadlock Exists
But on the cruiser question there is such a vast difference of opinion that it almost justifies the description of a deadlock. At least, Ambassador

Dawes and his aides in London have thus far been unable to convince the hard-boiled British Admiralty officials of the justice and sense of the American program of cruiser parity. Britain has overwhelming cruiser preponderance. The only way American equality can be achieved is for Britain to scrap down to the American strength or for the United States to build up to the British.

The British Admiralty has thus far, it is learned, stood adamant against any scrapping. President Hoover, for reasons of economy as well as of world policy, is unwilling to build up. Construction has now been stopped in both British and American yards.

The only alternative is to strike upon a program which will take into account American destroyer and submarine superiority for a period of years, leaving Britain superior in cruisers. Thus, the negotiations invariably return to the question:

"How many rusty destroyers and war-time submarines idling at American docks equal how many modern British cruisers, steadily in commission?"

England Insistent
There are admirals in the American navy who fairly snort at the idea of trying to measure the relative fighting strength of America's rusty destroyers and Britain's modern cruisers. They say no naval yardstick, however devised, could possibly bring the two navies to the same measure of fighting efficiency on any such theory of equation.

The British Admiralty experts at the abortive Geneva conference steadfastly insisted that a minimum of some 375,000 tons of fast, modern cruisers is necessary to protect the interests of the far-flung British empire. That, they contended, is the lowest defensive limit for empire needs. There has been no change in this Admiralty policy since the Dawes-MacDonald conference began.

The United States could complete the 15-cruiser program, now suspended by President Hoover, and still be far short of that mark. Meanwhile the negotiations continue, with Ambassador Dawes in frequent cable and telephonic contact with Washington.

There are no lemons on the island of Hayti, but there is a true orange, bitter and sour which never turns sweet. The peasants housewives have a way of rubbing the cut halves over chicken which has been carved in pieces to be flattered. Travelers to the island say that the resultant acid, fruity flavor is delicious.

Work has just been started on the $65,000,000 docks at Southampton, England.

Police Try Out New Signal Plan

No Yellow Light Now On Washington-Mill Flasher

Pedestrians crossing East Washington street at the Mill street intersection now are allowed five more seconds to do so since the New Castle police department has inaugurated a new traffic light plan there. Likewise more time is given those who cross Mill street at that corner.

Officials have replaced the yellow caution light with a red stop light, requiring motorists to halt immediately when the latter shows against them. While the new arrangement, according to police, is but passing through a period of experimentation nevertheless it appears that the newly devised system is proving favorable and may be put into effect at other corners.

A News representative inquired of Officer Tommy Jones, stationed at the Washington-Mill street intersection, as to how the motorists were taking to the plan. He replied that it is considerably better and stops motorists from dashing past the corner on a caution light.

Motorists are advised to take care in passing the main intersection and to stop when the middle red light flashes. Cars may not pass through on the new red signal.

The new plan was placed into effect Tuesday.

BAD CHECK PASSER NABBED BY POLICE IN LOCAL STORE

to the police station, where three different checks were found in his possession. One was for twenty dollars, which a clerk in the Millman Music company, 8 West Washington street, had made out for him and which he signed Frank Lombardo. This is the check he tried to pass at Perelman's. The second one was for $3.85 made out to the Fashion Bottery. The third was for $10.50 which he attempted to pass at the Anthony studio. This was not endorsed and that is the reason it was not accepted. He put the $20 check in his pocket as Officer Longstreth appeared at the scene.

Gave Others
He had given a check signed Frank Lombardo at the Millman store for $140 in a deal for a radio and was to have returned today for a certain amount of cash. The girl at the Millman store has since identified him as the man making this and the twenty dollar check.

He also had a receipt for repairs made to his car in a Wampum garage. He was compelled to pay cash there. His check being refused.

On Monday, he had repairs made to the car at the West Side garage of Mr. Coleman and had attempted to pay by check, which was refused. He gave them a wrist watch in payment. This may have been stolen, the police state.

Card Found

In the car was found a card bearing the name of John Evans, R. D. No. 4, Poland road, Youngstown. This led to inquiry in Youngstown, which brought out the fact that it was a stolen machine that he was using.

He bought a suit at the Moskins store here, which he pawned in Youngstown. He claimed that William Lombardo of Koppel was his cousin. Inquiry of Lombardo developed the fact that he was no relation of Lombardo. He had been at that man's place seeking monetary assistance. He later told the police that he had a brother-in-law Jack Pabish of Fourth street, Koppel, which has been verified by the police here.

TELLS OF TRYSTS WITH DEAD GIRL BY "AGREEMENT"

on companionate marriage opened the way.

Mrs. Helen Snook, wife of the defendant, who had been sitting in the courtroom attired entirely in white, left the room when Miss Hix's name was first mentioned. Earlier in the day, Mrs. Snook had taken the stand and testified her husband had always been kind to her and that she never had seen him display temper.

The defendant's aged mother, Mrs. Abner Snook, of Lebanon, O., also had testified that Snook was a "good boy" all his life. Then Snook was called to the stand while the spectators in the thronged courtroom craned their necks.

Gave Her Gun.
Under questioning of Defense Attorney Max C. Seyfert, Snook testified he had given Miss Hix a revolver because she had told him of an incident when she was frightened in a room. He gave her the gun for self-protection. Snook himself was for years the world's best rapid-fire pistol shot.

Calmly, almost nonchalantly, Snook told the jury how he had taught Miss Hix to shoot. They used to go to the rifle range outside the city limits and practice. It was here that the girl was beaten and slashed to death on the night of June 13, last.

"She didn't know how to point the gun at first," Snook testified. "But she became a pretty good shot."

Was Quite Adept.
In great detail, Attorney Seyfert brought out just how adept Miss Hix became at shooting as moving as well as stationary objects.

The tall, bald-headed witness, a man of 49, with a florid face and nose glasses, and about six feet tall, answered questions promptly and in excellent English. His memory at this point seemed splendid.

Attorney Seyfert stressed the revolver practice because the defense contends that on the night Miss Hix was killed she reached for her handgun during a quarrel and Snook thought she was going to shoot him. Q. When did your relations with Miss Hix become intimate? A. About three weeks after we met. Q. Did these relations continue? A. Yes, through the summer of 1926 and the fall and winter of 1927.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 7.—Dr. James H. Snook, the 49-year-old college professor who is on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, 25-year-old co-ed, took the witness stand in his own defense today.

He was calm and self-possessed and testified in a clear voice. He was dressed in a gray suit and pepper business suit.

The courtroom was jammed to the doors as the witness testified. The spectators stood five deep around the walls. Except for the voices of Snook and the attorney and the hum of an electric fan, not a sound could be heard.

Mrs. Helen Snook, the defendant's wife, in court for the first time, sat at the defense table regarding her husband with tear-dimmed eyes. Earlier in the forenoon she had taken the stand and testified in her husband's behalf.

Dr. Snook testified the first met Theora in June of 1926, when she was employed as a part-time stenographer in the public office at Ohio State University, where she was a medical student.

pled man, Snook replied: "Most of the girls there knew I was married."

Courtroom, Columbus, O., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Helen Snook, wife of Dr. James H. Snook, who is on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, 25-year-old co-ed, took the witness stand in her husband's defense today.

She was attired in a white silk dress, white hat trimmed in blue, white slippers and white stockings. She and Dr. Snook embraced and kissed when they met in court this morning, as he came in between two guards. A few minutes later she walked to the stand, head erect, and gave her testimony in a well modulated voice.

Courtroom Packed.
Mrs. Snook was questioned by defense attorney, E. O. Ricketts. The courtroom was packed to the doors. The spectators craned their necks and hung on to every word.

Q. (By Ricketts.) How long have you known Dr. Snook?

A. For 15 years.

Q. When were you married to Dr. Snook?

A. On September 11, 1922, in Columbus.

Q. What was your occupation when you married him?

A. I was a teacher in the public schools of Columbus.

Q. Where did you first meet him?

A. Here in the city, when he was employed in the veterinary department at the university.

Mrs. Snook was asked if any children had been born of their marriage. She replied two, one of whom is living.

Q. Did you ever notice Dr. Snook to be angry or abusive?

A. No, never.

Q. Did he ever mistreat you?

A. Absolutely not.

Highlights in Mrs. Snook's testimony were:

1. She never heard of Theora Hix prior to the co-ed's murder.

2. Her husband was home at dinner time preceding the slaying, but she did not see him then.

3. Dr. Snook returned home the night of June 13 between 9:25 and 10 o'clock. "The murder is supposed to have been committed about 10 p.m."

4. Snook was "restless a great deal" recently and "could not remain sitting for long. He was nervous and irritable and he had not been that way before."

Senator From Oklahoma Urges Immediate Relief For Farmer

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Himself from an agricultural state, which needs all the relief it can get, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma says he decidedly does not wish to figure as a carping critic of President Hoover's new federal farm board, his reasons are so urgent for hoping that it will accomplish wonderful things.

Nevertheless, he suggests that the farmers not only need help; they need it now.

Intimations from Chairman Legge, among other members of the board, that it will take time to put agriculture upon a satisfactory footing leave Senator Thomas rather cold.

Ever if, for the present, the farm board members can see their way clear to do nothing more than talk, the Oklahoma farmer observes that he would like to hear them say something really to the point.

"For example," he comments, "the senate finance committee is busy at present revising our tariff rates."

"In fact, the Oklahoma lawmaker is a member of the committee."

"Supposedly," he continues, "this job of tariff revision was undertaken mainly for agriculture's benefit. It seems as if the farm board ought to take an interest in it."

The truth is, some of the minority members of the committee—which is Senator Thomas' faction—do not think the work of tariff revision is taking a direction likely to turn out to the farmers' advantage at all; but very much to the contrary.

"I would be glad," said the Oklahoman, "to know the board's views."

Optimists dwell on the advance in wheat prices since the board's appointment.

"Highly gratifying," agreed Senator Thomas, "to farmers who were not compelled to sell their wheat before its price had advanced much, which, however, large numbers of them were compelled to do."

"Even those who could afford to wait are not yet getting the top of the market. In actual practice, buyers will not pay it. Fluctuation is so rapid that they refuse more than the day-by-day minimum to safeguard themselves against loss—unfair in them, perhaps, but natural."

"Now, that is something concrete that the board might accomplish—fix a definite price, based on what is known of world conditions—thus preventing fluctuations, and insuring the farmers all that their crops really are worth."

"Oh, it would tie up considerable money—but we are talking about farm relief."

Bessemer Plant Plan Improvements

GROVE CITY, Aug. 7.—Faith in improved business conditions and the steady operation of the Grove City plant of the Cooper-Bessemer company directors held in this city a few days ago when it was decided to make extensive improvements which will be started in the near future. When these plans are completed it will be second to none in the country in engine plants, is the belief of the officials.

It was decided that the first improvements will be in the power house where two diesel engine-driven air compressors, which will be manufactured in the local plant, will be installed. This will concentrate the company's power equipment at the main power house and will release the space now occupied at the west end of the plant near the creek for other purposes.

The purchase of an electric locomotive for handling cores in the foundry was also decided upon.

Among many of the important matters discussed was the consideration of a new office building. At the present the offices of the company are located in the main building along Lincoln avenue and are occupying space that could be used for the shop. It also is very noisy being so closely linked with the shop.

Directors present for this meeting were as follows: Dr. W. J. Fithian, H. C. Pollock, B. B. Williams, F. M. Thomas, Z. E. Taylor, M. E. Gehres and M. L. Daney, New York City members; Gordon S. Rentler of the National bank and J. Speed Elliott of the August Belmont Co. were unable to be present.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

PICKING AND CHOOSING
The cross-word puzzle craze drove into bankruptcy a great Chinese firm which manufactured Mah Jong sets. When the Mah Jong had spread across the United States one would have thought that for generations to come the people of this republic were going to get their chief entertainment and recreation from playing a Chinese game. Then came the cross-word puzzle. Next will come something else. It's the same with books. A book that has something unusual and exciting in it may have a tremendous sale. It becomes a best seller. There is a craze for it. Then it disappears as it should. Very likely it has no lasting merit.

At no point in life does judgment show up so well or so badly, as at no point does it get such a severe test as when we are called upon to join the parade for a fad, for a craze.

As to books, especially, better read some books you know are sound than try to keep up with all the new ones just because they have red and orange covers.

A rich man from India, visiting in England, was shown every attention that a spirit of welcome and hospitality could suggest. When he was later asked what had impressed him most he said: "The green grass."

Texas Negro Farmer Dead At Age Of 107

(International News Service)
AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 7.—Burl Adams, negro farmer, died recently at Fiskville, near here, at the age of 107 years. He was said by his numerous descendants, living in this vicinity, to have been born in Kentucky in 1822, and was formerly the slave of a family there named Davis.

Burl is survived by six children, 49 grandchildren, 56 great-grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

His wife died 30 years ago and Burl never remarried, living with his mother, who died 18 years later. None of the progeny of Burl would attempt to estimate the age of "Gramma." The old negro was very religious.

Use Light Signals For Draw Bridge

(International News Service)
OLD SAYBROOK, Conn., Aug. 7.—Steam boats riding in and out of Long Island Sound for ports on the Connecticut river were so noisy with their night-time whistling for the two great drawbridges here that residents of this aristocratic old town finally took action collectively.

As a result the steam boats now signal for the drawbridge tenders not by sirens but by a system of flashing lights. The system has been perfect so far and Old Saybrook hasn't lost a night's sleep since it was installed.

In Greenfield, Indiana, a tract of land which includes "The Ole Swimmin' Hole" of James Whitcomb Riley's famous poem, has been bought for a Riley Memorial Park.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Central Park Casino while Mayor Walker turned over to Sid. Solomon's corporation for the Delectation of the Dough Babies, is doing quite well, thank you.

They're grinding out a weekly profit of $8,000. The courtroom and checking concession goes for $250 a night, while the car starter pays the management $125 each evening for the privilege of starting the cars of the Starchy Archies.

The mayor knows his New York. The people that he took the Park Casino away from will step out next November and vote him back into office.

Law Fields used to poke Joe Weber in the eye and then pat him on the cheek: "Mike," he'd say, "if I treat you cruel, it's because I luff you!"

A BOOK AD
Jimmy Montgomery's last book, "The Virtue of This Jest," is advertised in the New York newspapers as a "Book League of America Selection" in the following language:

"Meet Dick Swaine. To know Dick is to love him. He made a cuckold of his master, a harlot of his mistress, a bandit of himself. He loved and fought gloriously the while he lied and stole and cheated. Of honor he had little, of virtue none, blarney, blarney."

As old Ed Howe once remarked: "When a woman finishes reading a book like that she's in no mood to get up in the morning. Try the old man's bacon and wipe the baby's nose."

Isn't it the TRUTH!

WHAT A FIGHT!
A close and sure salesman living on Washington Heights tells me he had read every word in every issue of the Saturday Evening Post since its inception. He says the only exercise he took it all that time was holding the magazine in both hands while he read it and turning the pages. Today his muscles are like those of the Village Blacksmith.

Two years ago he ran into a business crisis and began reading the magazine; but he still subscribes and has the books piled in the hall of his home ready to tackle them again when the occasion permits. Each week when a new issue arrives he unwraps it, lifts up the pile and carefully places the new volume on the bottom of the heap.

"I'm going to win this fight," he says, "if it's the last thing I do!"

THOSE DOTS
A New York columnist is in the habit of interspersing his sentences with rows of dots, like this: A subscriber wrote to the editor the other day complaining that he wasn't getting his money's worth.

"I can't write a column," he said in his letter, "but I could knit one."

YOU will find on Plymouth the largest tires of any car in the low-priced field. Real over-size balloons—4.75—more than ample for this full-size car.

That is why the improved Plymouth—with all its full-size roominess and great comfort, with all its Chrysler-like swiftness and smoothness, with all its ruggedness of construction, and the safety of its Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—with so much else to talk about, devotes an entire advertisement to over-size tires.

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyance and comfort. Then, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance and, most important of all, give the car greater traction, a firmer grip on the road—and that means sure-footed safety.

From tires to roof, from radiator to gasoline tank, Chrysler engineering genius has endowed the improved Plymouth with qualities and abilities never before available in a car of low price. Make your own comparisons—the facts can't be missed.

Pig Iron Production Stays At High Level

Pig iron was produced in July on a daily basis of 122,015 gross tons, 1 1/2 per cent below the 123,337 tons of June but nearly 25 per cent greater than the 99,120-ton rate of last July. For July, last month's rate was a record, it was, in fact, within 3 per cent of the best month in the history of the pig iron industry—May, 1928.

Due to the longer months, the July total of 3,722,511 tons was slightly larger than the June production of 3,715,104 tons. In July, 1928, only 3,072,711 tons was made. Output for the year through July stands at 43,420,048 tons, a new seven-month record. In the first seven months of 1928 production was 21,563,174 tons. July statistics on pig iron not only denote the unusual strength of the industry for midsummer but they also afford a measure of the recession from the peak of the first half year. June and July successively have developed slight losses in production, the decline being from 125,753 tons in May to 122,016 tons in July.

At the close of July 217 blast furnace stacks were active, compared with 220 at the end of June, the first half high. In July for the first time since last November more stacks went out than in. August promises to be more unsettled, as two stacks already have been dropped and more are scheduled. Last August only 183 stacks were blowing. Thus, it appears the easing in pig iron has been mild and last year's activity still is topped by a wide margin.

Similar Strength
For steel, forthcoming July statistics will reveal similar strength. In both new business and production the tendency the past week has been slightly downward, but considering the season the situation is most favorable. August is eliciting the smallest automobile steel specifications of the year, freight car construction has eased off and implement makers are not ready to begin their fall campaigns. On the other hand, building holds remarkably steady and the requirements of the general manufacturing trade, small individually, are large in the aggregate.

Approximately 2800 freight and 540

tinues as low as $13.50, Birmingham, in northern markets. Beehive coke prices have survived shading in the East; and recent sales of standard furnace fuel have been at $2.75 in the Pittsburgh district. The beehive surplus, however, is increasing. Iron and steel scrap continues on strong ground. Consumers generally are deferring the issue but dealers are holding prices at high levels, in some cases $4 per ton over a year ago. Semifinished steel sales are restricted to small lots, but considerable coverage, possible late in August, is ahead.

Steel corporation subsidiaries are operating this week at 99 to 100 per cent, or just under practical capacity, a fractional loss from last week. Independent producers continue at about 91 to 92 per cent, and the entire industry at 95 to 96 per cent. Finishing mills, especially in the Mahoning valley, have been affected by the heat.

Reflecting weakness in sheet prices, Iron Trade Review composite of 14 leading iron and steel products is off 8 cents this week, to $36.50, its lowest since the first week of April. The July average was $36.71 and last August $34.06.

Butler Man Is Given Sentence

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 7.—Charles Hawkins, of Butler, today was under six months sentence in the Butler County Jail, having pleaded guilty when arranged before federal judge R. M. Gibson to charges of transporting a stolen automobile from Spring Grove, Pa., to Grange, Ohio.

Judge Gibson also fined Carl Edwards, of Johnstown, $400 for violating his parole. Edwards had pleaded guilty on April 4, last, to charges of violating the liquor laws. At that time he was placed on probation. He was recently arrested when he left the jurisdiction of the court and went to Cleveland where he was taken into custody.

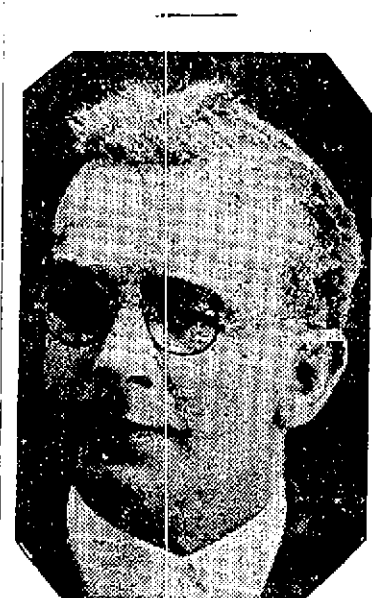

Weakness in nails, both in demand and price, contrasts with the strong position of other wire products. General cold-rolled strip requirements are higher, while those for hot rolled are lower.

Surprising Vitality

The vitality of pig iron is surprising for August. At New York 20,000 tons has been closed. Heavy sales at Buffalo have been followed by new inquiry for 10,000 tons. August shipment at Chicago are exceeding the rate of July. Some Pittsburgh district furnaces are shipping more than they are making. Reduced rates on southern iron to North Atlantic points, of 75 cents to $1.16 per ton, are now effective. Southern iron con-

REV. W. J. DAVIES

Rev. W. J. Davies, Ap Linoas, many years ago a pair heater at the Sheng-tung tin plant in this city, who left this city 30 years ago to enter the ministry, studying for the same at the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., will return here this week and on next Sunday will occupy the pulpit of the First Congregational church, of which he was a member, while in this city.

He has many friends in this city who will have this opportunity of hearing and greeting him, and the indications are that he will be greeted with a large congregation on the occasion of his appearance in the local pulpit. He is especially desirous of meeting all his former friends while in the city.

While a resident of this city many years ago Rev. Miss Beryl Stickle who has had charge of the Junior C. Y. P. W. for the past month entertained them at her home on Thursday evening August 1. The yard was gaily decorated with Japanese lanterns and from all reports the children had a very enjoyable time.

About 40 persons attended the Senior C. Y. P. W. social which was held in the church on Tuesday evening July 30. A novel idea was introduced by having the menu printed in such a way that no one knew what they were ordering. Some were surprised, if not disappointed to find that their order consisted of a napkin, a toothpick and an olive, where they had expected ice-cream, pie and lemonade.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal, For Central Press

Some weeks ago, when the wheat market was taking a severe tumble, I wrote an article for this column explaining why the course of wheat prices was much less important than many people think.

This week, with the price of wheat something like 40 cents a bushel higher, and 20 cents higher than this time last year, all I can do is to repeat that the public gets much too excited over these fluctuations.

I do not mean by that the changes in wheat prices are not important in themselves. They are extremely important. The flour mills watch them anxiously. The export trade could make millions if there were any way to foresee them with precision.

The whole tribe of wheat gamblers, politically called traders, is interested in price fluctuations, for it is on these movements that they maintain their Rolls-Royces, or go broke.

But as for the farmers, themselves, the growers of the wheat, it does not matter greatly whether wheat is low or high, for the simple reason that these prices are based on how much wheat there is.

The thing is self-compensating. If prices are low, it is because there is lots of wheat being sold. If prices are high, as I hope they may be for the rest of the year, it is because farmers have less wheat for sale.

The unthinkable non-farmer will make a mental calculation, figuring that wheat growers are getting, say, 20 cents a bushel more on 850,000 bushels of wheat, and cheerfully assume that farming will be $170,000,000 better off this year than last. What he overlooks is that if there were 850,000,000 bushels of wheat grown, the price would not have gone up 20 cents, or likely, it would have fallen. The 20-cent advance in price is based on a crop which very likely may not exceed 725,000,000 bushels.

There are many more angles to this, to be sure. It is quite possible that this may be an extra good year for our wheat growers, because the shortage is not so much in this country as in the spring wheat of Canada. A combination of plenty of wheat and a high world price is the wheat man's heaven.

It is better, broadly speaking, for supply to be short and prices high, rather than to have plenty of wheat and low prices, although the actual cash return to the farmer may be about the same in either case. Our curious human brain gets sure satisfaction out of seeing one bushel of grain at $2 than two bushels at $1 each. It shouldn't, but it does.

And that is why I wrote, above, that I hope prices may stay up for the rest of the year. Not that it makes any great difference in total farm incomes, but it makes the wheat grower feel better. And, I think, keeps a muzzle on the professional mourners who have for years been wringing their hands over the woes of farming.

Report Chinese President Will Resign His Post

Messages Say That Regime Of President Chiang Kai Shek, Is at An End

ARMY OFFICERS MAKING DEMANDS

(International News Service) SHANGHAI, Aug. 7.—The Evening Post today forecast the resignation of President Chiang Kai Shek, of China, within the next few days. The prediction was based on the crisis precipitated by army generals demanding huge sums to carry out the disarmament program drawn up by the Nanjing conference on Tuesday. The newspaper asserted the Chiang Kai Shek regime was tottering as the result of the repeatedly unsuccessful and expensive efforts to unify China and compel Chinese generals to submit to the wishes of the nationalist government. Resignation of Soong Kewen as finance minister was attributed by the Evening Post to pressure brought to bear upon him by army officers, who demanded an accounting of loans totalling $324,000,000.

Zoning Board Hears One Appeal Tuesday

The Board of Zoning Appeals had one case before it, at its monthly session, Tuesday afternoon in the city council chamber. It was the case of Budzowski Brothers, who conduct the Model Baking Company at 101-103 West Long avenue, and who sought permission, contrary to zoning regulations of the district to build a one story building in a space twenty-nine feet by the width of the property for use as a storage place for materials used in their business. This was contrary to the zoning regulations because of the fact that there are three families in the apartments over their place of business and this was required as yard space. They also desired permission to add an additional story on part of the tile building at the back of the property used as a bakery.

There is also a wooden garage back of the tile building at the front of the property and the space they desired to use. The board granted them permission to erect the one story storage place on the vacant part of the lot, providing they placed a solid concrete roof on it suitable for use as a yard by the people in the apartments and also placed a concrete wall at the exposed ends of the building as a protection against falling off the place. They were required to erect a suitable screen from their ovens to do away with the smoke nuisance in the granting of permission to place a second story on part of their bakery. The only protests made were by people complaining against the smoke nuisance and they were satisfied with the requirement of a high stack.

Pig Iron Cross Holding High Level Of July

The August 8th Issue Of The Iron Trade Review Will Say

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—Pig iron production during July was the third largest monthly total on record, the Iron Age will say tomorrow in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade. Production during July was 3,735,120 tons, being exceeded only by that for May 1929, and May, 1923. This surpassed June production by 67,895 tons.

The magazine will predict that the present high output of pig iron will continue in view of the fact that 216 furnaces were being operated on August 1. This is at the rate of 121,955 tons a day, or only 135 tons below the actual average production for July. However, August production will probably be about five to ten per cent below the recent high rate, the magazine will say.

Tonnage Allocated

"Thus far, makers of a wide range of products have been able to allocate tonnage among their various finishing departments in such a manner as to utilize their full ingot capacity," Iron Age will say, "and there are indications that replenishment of reserve stocks of semi-finished steel will be a factor in sustaining their output through the remainder of the month. Such a move would place them in a position to take advantage of improved business in September, and at the same time, would permit them to continue to reap the economies accruing from peak operations."

"Actual reductions in steel output to date have been confined to smaller companies specializing in a few finished products. Shifts in demand are less serious for producers making a diversity of finished materials, since a decline in business in one direction is frequently offset by a gain in another."

"The Iron Age pig iron composite price," the magazine concludes, "is again where it was two weeks ago, having advanced 4c to $18.42 a gross ton. The finished steel composite remains at 2.42c a pound."

Woman Clerk Held For Taking Funds

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Aug. 7.—Charged with misappropriation of $2,950 from the United States Loan Corporation of Ambridge, Mrs. Cecilia Parks, 29, of 912 Merchant street, a clerk employed by the corporation, was held for court today by Justice of the Peace Vincent J. Lewis, in bond of $5,000. In default of bond she was ordered committed to jail.

The information against the woman was made by a representative of a bonding concern. W. J. Dowling, local manager of the corporation, refused to comment on the affair.

WHY CROWD GOES TO LAKEHURST

This view of the Graf Zeppelin over the Lakehurst, N. J., hangar is what crowds wait hours and hours to see. This photo was snapped as the huge dirigible completed its second successful flight from Germany.

Flight Surgeon Is Named For Pilots

(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—To Universal Aviation corporation goes the distinction of being the first commercial air line operator in the country to employ a flight surgeon to take care of its "human engines."

Under this plan the pilot who shows the least sign of physical disability or an impending breakdown will be discovered quickly and replaced until his physical condition again is normal.

Dr. Wade Hampton Miller, of Kansas City, has been appointed to the new post. Paul Goldsborough announced when he disclosed creation of the position.

Dr. Miller will have direct charge of the health of all personnel in the service. Under him, pilots and mechanics will receive complete examination—and overhauling—if necessary, every 30 days, which is six times as often as the department of commerce regulations require.

Old Texas Port Is Recalled By Bell

(International News Service)
VICTORIA, Texas, Aug. 7.—Memories of the tragic fate of Indianola, once a prosperous Texas port, were revived by the discovery of a large bronze bell, in an almost perfect state of preservation, which was unearthed by the recent hurricane which swept the Gulf Coast. It was ascertained upon cleaning the bell that it had been made in Cincinnati in 1871.

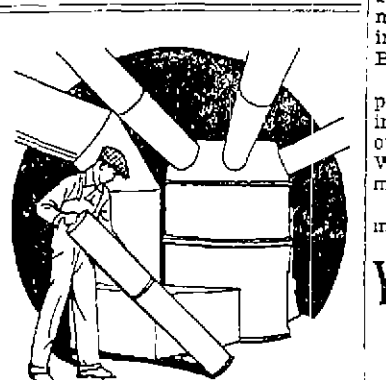

Indianola was almost destroyed by a storm in 1875, and in 1888 a fire which swept it completed the work of destruction. The once prosperous port was abandoned.

It is thought the bell belonged to a church in Indianola. Efforts were being made to establish its ownership by Frank Montier, who found it.

Only 180 Horsecabs Are Left In Berlin

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Only 180 horsecabs are left in Berlin. There were more than 1,000 at the end of the war, the number had dropped to 600 by 1927, and to 269 on July 1 last. While some German cities such as Hamburg, for instance, have done away with horsecabs altogether, they are still permitted in Berlin in order not to deprive the old cabmen of a means of livelihood.

However, no new concessions are granted, and it will not be many years before the last "Droschke" will have disappeared.

Maine Aids Juries By Printing Book

(International News Service)
AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 7.—In order that all persons drawn for jury service in all courts of the commonwealth of Maine might be given an opportunity of thoroughly understanding their duties, printed instructions for study by trial jurors, an innovation in Maine jurisprudence, may be issued beginning next January, providing the State Superior Court justices approve the idea, it was learned here.

Whether the Superior Court Judges will confer on the proposal to decide the matter or whether each justice will exercise individual discretion about issuing the circulars, was not learned.

The proposed booklet, consisting of ten pages would be devoted largely to questions and answers calculated to inform jurors on the general subject of their duties.

Standard Oil In Hot Dog Business

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Officials of the Beacon Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, have noticed that when an automobile stops at a roadside filling station for gasoline the occupants usually rush to a nearby "hot dog" and pop stand.

They wondered why "hot dogs" and pop could not be retained by the company that sells the gasoline.

The corporation has entered into an agreement for the establishment of six test stands. If these are successful more will be erected.

Finds Document Of Washington Period

CLARION, Pa., Aug. 7.—John Shumaker of New Bethlehem has unearthed a legal writing that was issued while George Washington was president, restraining one George Worthman of Washington county, this state, from doing mischief of any kind. The writing is legible, but very hard to read. It was executed by R. J. Meigs, prothonotary of Washington county, and was written in February, 1792. The parchment is yellow with age but the ink has not faded perceptibly.

PLANE AND GLIDER MAKE FLIGHT

A brilliantly painted glider, resembling a great moth, caught the attention of air men throughout the country as it was towed from Ypsilanti, Mich., to Akron, O., behind an airplane. The test was arranged by Prof. R. E. Franklin, head of the engineering and mechanical department of the University of Michigan, builder of the glider. The glider was connected with the plane by a wire cable 300 feet long. When released at the height of 2,000 feet over the Akron airport, the pilot took 10 minutes to bring it to a graceful landing. The test is the second of its kind in the United States. Above, glider just after it was cut adrift, and, inset, after landing.

DETROIT, Aug. 7.—The body of Richard Sandlands, 30, special prohibition agent who was drowned last Friday night, presumably when he fell from a boat while struggling with a suspected rum-runner, was recovered from the Detroit river today.

Heath has not been apprehended. His wife, Maxine, has appeared to give her story of the affair but declares she does not know her husband's whereabouts. Both said Sandlands refused to show credentials, then the fight ensued.

Carlton Recital Delights Crowd

Before a capacity audience at the Temple Israel hall Tuesday night, Margaret Fulkerson Carlton, soprano, and Loyal Carlton, violinist, of Baltimore, presented a benefit concert of classical numbers in their first home appearance in joint recital. Every number on the program was well received.

New Castle can proudly add the names of two more of its own who are making reputations in the world of music. Many in the audience last evening were those prominent musical circles here.

Margaret Fulkerson Carlton's beautiful soprano voice was even. She not only sang but interpreted her songs, and caught the spirit of the different moods, and exhibited a nice versatility of expression. Loyal Carlton has developed into a violinist of exceptional ability, but this comes not as a surprise to those who knew him before he left to make Baltimore his home. He has a full, sonorous tone and technique is clear and was more than adequate for his offerings last night, which included compositions by Paganini-Kreisler, Svendsen, Bach, and Wieniawski.

It was a program intelligently arranged and was full of contrast. It opened with "Elegie" by Massenet, for soprano, with violin obbligato, a number well known but ever welcome. Each group was received with such sustained applause that Margaret Fulkerson Carlton responded with an encore "Such A Little Fellow" by Dichtmont, and Mr. Carlton with "Rondino" by Beethoven-Kreisler.

The program was interesting from beginning to end, and we look to hear much more from these two. Anna Kent Welsh was the accompanist, and was her usual, capable partner, and contributed her share to the delightful evening. We always did like her work.

Vienna Cancer School Houses 40 Scientists

Two Groups Differ On Basic Cause Of Disease Which Causes Big Toll Of Life

INSTITUTE FOUNDED BY RICH AMERICAN

By ALFRED TYRBAUER
International News Service Special Correspondent
VIENNA, Aug. 7.—Outstanding representatives of both scientific groups carrying on cancer research along different, rather contrasting lines, were invited to join the new Vienna cancer research institute founded recently by the American millionaire, S. Canning Childs.

The principal difference between the two groups of biologists and physicians is that while one of them believes that cancer is due to a specific microbe, the other asserts that it is a disease caused by an abnormality of the intestines or of the ductless glands controlling the vegetative life of the organism.

To Open Hospital
The "Canning Childs Hospital for Research of Internal Diseases and Cancer" is to be opened probably the end of October, will give an equal opportunity to adherents of both schools to enlarge the field of their investigation and bring about the solution of the mysterious and dreadful problem, called cancer.

The board of trustees, which was recently formed in Vienna, includes the famous professors of the Vienna University, Prof. Eiselsberg, Prof. Wenckebach, Prof. Arzt, Prof. Tandler and the director of the new institute, Dr. A. Edelmann.

Other members are: Mr. Childs, the Austrian Ministers, Kiengoeck, Schmitz and Reich, and the Mayor of Vienna Herr Seitz.

Not only the future but also the history of Mr. Canning Childs' donation is interesting indeed.
Showed Appreciation
After having sought for years healing against a painful internal disease, and having visited a great number of American and Western European specialists, he came to Vienna and was cured by a comparatively unknown Vienna physician, Dr. Adolf Edelmann. His joy and thankfulness took the form of a $100,000 check.

which he placed at Dr. Edelmann's disposal for medical purposes.
The initiative of the American philanthropist has opened the hearts and the checkbooks of other plutocrats, and Dr. Edelmann succeeded in realizing his old dream of establishing a modern cancer-research institute in Vienna.
A distinguished staff of about 40 scientists from all over the world will work in the research institute, which will comprise also a hospital with a hundred or more beds.

New Paris Key Ring Has Electric Light

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 7.—A new help for huffy who comes home late and perhaps not always too steady on his feet, has appeared in the shape of a patent keyring which has a tiny electric lamp in the center.
The reverse side holds a watch encased in metal. Another ingenious idea is a table apparatus for lighting cigarettes made after the fashion of the pocket briquet, but with a clock inset on one side.

Zeps World Tour To Net Big Sum

(International News Service)
LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 7.—The Graf's round-the-world flight will bring in close to $500,000, half the cost of constructing the zeppelin it was estimated here Tuesday. At $9,000 each, the revenue from passengers should be $182,000.
Mail and freight, which Dr. Eckener says are more profitable, should bring in twice as much.

MAHONING AVENUE MAN ASSISTED

It has been learned that it was James McCarthy, a well-known colored man residing on Mahoning avenue, who called to R. O. Lindsey, operator of the street car that figured last Saturday evening in the collision in which George W. Heckathorn was killed and Louis Smith seriously injured, that a man was burning to death. He and the operator of the car pulled Louis Smith out of the wreck and saved him from being burned to death.

America's Problem

Utilities Expert Warns Against Tendency Toward Uncontrolled Monopoly

John Bauer

(This is the third of a series of articles on the present situation and trend in the public utilities field.)

By HOWARD P. JONES
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Public utility stocks have soared recently.

Attention of bankers and financiers has been focused on these industries. Why? Because the hand of Morgan is active there, and Morgan spells merger!

What is happening to the electric light and gas company in your town or city?

In Nine Cases Out of Ten—Perhaps you don't know, because the name hasn't been changed. But, in nine cases out of ten, the company which supplies you with these necessities is no longer owned, controlled or even operated locally!

A few years ago, if you didn't like gas rates, you could call up Bill Smith and tell him so. You could still call up Bill Smith, of course, but Bill, though he still may be with the company, hasn't the slightest word to say about rates.

Public utilities are no exception. I simply take them because everybody's talking about them these days. What is happening to public utilities is happening to every line of business in this country.

That great octopus—the holding corporation—is spreading its tentacles throughout the nation, fastening itself to individual concerns everywhere.

Perhaps the term "octopus" is exaggerated. Perhaps the holding corporation should be likened to a parent controlling the destiny of many children.

For, there is something to be said in its favor. Certainly great economies may be effected in plant construction, financing, engineering, accounting and managerial services under centralized control. A large corporation should be able to sell its service more cheaply than a small one. Volume production cuts costs of operation. Volume sales permit the slicing of profit margin. Henry Ford taught us that.

Troubled Waters Ahead?

On the other hand, there are those who see troubled waters ahead.

"There has been a great deal of chaos in this rapid holding company movement," Dr. John Bauer, director of the American Public Utilities bureau warned the writer. "Some of the more far-seeing financial interests have come to realize the great danger there is to the industry, especially to the investor. If the tendencies of recent years are not sharply curbed."

Here Dr. Bauer refers to two tendencies over-capitalization and the pyramiding of overhead on the operating properties.

What is happening in the public utility field is of peculiar interest because the public has always assumed the right to control these corporations, through the state government. When the corporations actually are owned and controlled outside the state, the problem of regulation becomes a difficult one.

"From the public standpoint, it seems to me it is necessary to overhaul our entire system of regulation," Dr. Bauer declares. "It was instituted nearly 25 years ago, and is utterly unsuited to meet conditions as they are at present."

"I can see little benefit in trying to prevent large economic units. The better course, it seems to me, is to provide government agencies with adequate powers and means to cope with large economic units to preserve the public interest."

Municipal Utility

"One thing I believe important for the protection of the public is that every city have the right to establish a municipally owned and operated utility. This right alone would serve to curb an abusive monopoly and even a few successfully operated municipal plants would set a standard for service and rates for the private companies."

Other observers look for a second American Telephone & Telegraph company—and are guessing about it in the stock market. So public utilities shoot up like rockets!

Gives Message On "Walking With God"

Evangelist Mrs. Gertrude Och Delivers Able Sermon At Gospel Centre

The second week of the special revival services at the gospel center began Tuesday evening with the young lady evangelist, Mrs. Gertrude Och, speaking.

The evangelist brought a very heart-searching message, taking for her text Genesis 5:24: "And Enoch Walked with God." Walking with God involves three salient features, the speaker said: "separation, communion and transformation." In order for one to enjoy the privilege of walking with God, he must confess his sin, and through the blood of Christ be cleansed.

As a result of this separation from sin he enjoys communion with God, which will naturally bring transformation of one's life by the power of God.

Several hands were raised for prayer and one man received Christ into his life.

Rev. Frank J. Tyler presided at the piano during the congregational singing led by E. J. Berquist.

Services will begin at eight o'clock this evening. Mrs. Och will speak and sing, using her guitar.

11,000,000 Daily Passengers Ride On Manhattan's Building Elevators

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—While whoever is doing it is listing the wonders of New York, the city's 28,104 building elevators should be considered collectively a candidate in the list. Or perhaps it shouldn't—for New York takes its elevators more casually, probably, than anything in the city.

It is estimated that close to 11,000,000 ride on Manhattan's elevators every day and they are carried at a rate varying from 700 to 1000 feet per minute.

The Modern Way
Enter the modern elevator—solid oak doors close as the operator exclaims, "Floors, please." His fingers deftly glide over a series of buttons in accordance with the floors requested and he touches a lever.

There is a slight sense of motion which ceases almost immediately and no sensation of going up or down is perceptible. The elevator is entirely enclosed and comfortable—no zipping past floors or rush of air and sound of machinery.

Presto—the doors open and "thirty-first floor, going up." The doors close, the lever is touched, and the car is on its way again. There was no jerking halt, no crash and bang of doors.

Horsemen Organize Keystone Colt Club

Lawrence County Horse Raisers Organize Keystone Gold Medal Club

At a meeting of horsemen which took place Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., a Lawrence county section of the Keystone Gold Medal Club was organized. Some 25 draft horse breeders of the county attended the organization meeting.

This is the first time such a club for draft horse breeders has been organized in this county.

Elsie McCormick, a columnist on the New York World, says cheerfully is distinctly a "mystery" garment. And the fact is that it will have to remain a masculine garment if it is to be worn at all.

Of course students need athletic training. The question is: Do they get it by sitting in the grandstand and cheering the school team?

These members have 40 cents which will be weighed about September 1 of this year, and judging of earnings made by the colts will be done at the 1930 New Castle fair. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be the awards. According to H. K. McCulloch, colt raisers who did not attend the meeting but who would like to join the club should get in touch with him at once.

Prison Outbreak Is Under Probe

Kansas Officials Seek To Find Out How Prisoners Obtained Guns

TWO CONVICTS ARE SHOT TO DEATH

(International News Service)
LANSING, Kas., Aug. 7.—Capture of all prisoners who escaped in a dash which cost the lives of two of their number was reported today by Warden Milton F. Amrine of the State Penitentiary here.

The dead were William Webb, sentenced from Kansas City, Kas., and Robert Collins, Arkansas, Kas. felon. Collins committed suicide when he realized he could not evade pursuers. W. L. Heslip, guard who was the hero of a prison outbreak here two years ago, was shot in the leg.

The break for freedom, staged while the State Board of Parolees was in session in the administration building nearby, occurred as sixteen convicts were brought to the surface at the prison's coal mines.

Where Revolvers?
At least three of the mutineers drew revolvers and forced unarmed guards to shield them against bullets of the tower guns. The convicts broke through a wire barricade twenty-five feet high and scattered.

Hearing the shooting, members of the board of administration armed themselves with shotguns and joined in the battle, aided by Lansing citizens. Convict Webb was killed by David Campbell, Lansing storekeeper.

Penitentiary authorities today opened an investigation to ascertain how the prisoners obtained revolvers. Lansing is ten miles from Leavenworth Federal prison, where last week a riot by more than 1,000 inmates was quelled only after one prisoner had been killed and three wounded.

GLOBE TOUR OF AIR LEVIATHAN STARTS TONIGHT

gines after the trip to Lakehurst. There was no impairment of power or reliability—overhauling was unnecessary.

All passengers, mail and freight must be aboard before ten o'clock tonight. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the craft, ordered.

It was indicated a start would be made as soon after that hour as was deemed advisable. Weather forecasts earlier today revealed prospects of brisk west and northwest headwinds, cloudy skies and showers at the off-set.

Commander Zeno W. Wicks, who has charge of refueling the ship, stated this morning that all her gas tanks would be filled by noon.

Filling of the envelopes containing the mail and freight will also be completed by that time. The fabric, engines and other equipment of the ship have already been thoroughly inspected and found in perfect condition.

Eighteen Passengers
Eighteen passengers, including one woman, are expected to be aboard when the zeppelin starts in addition to her usual crew of 41. Two pieces of "live freight," Boston bulldog and a baby alligator—will also make the trip. The passengers are:

The sole woman passenger, Lady Drummond Hay, of London, a veteran trans-Atlantic air traveler.

William B. Leeds, son of the late tin plate king and husband of Princess Xenia of Russia.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl and Lieut. Jack C. Richardson, official observers for the United States navy.

Two New Yorkers, William Weber and Nathan Wexler, making the voyage as far as Friedrichshafen as the result of a golfing bet. Weber won. Wexler is paying both fares.

Joachim E. Rickard, of Brockton, Mass.

John E. Larnay, of Brooklyn, going "just for the ride."

Other passengers expected to be aboard when the zeppelin leaves, according to officials of the Hamburg-American line are:

Wilkins On Board
Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Otto Hilg, of Liberty, N. Y., Count Albrecht Montgelas, of Berlin, Karl H. Von Weigand, of New York and Berlin, P. Burgess, A. U. S. naval expert, Dr. Leisler Kien of Berlin, Morris Shumofsky, of New Rochelle, N. Y., Heinz Von Eschwege-Lichberg, of Berlin, Count Alfred Von Soden, of Berlin and Dr. Walter Spiess, of Berlin.

From Friedrichshafen, the Graf will sail eastward over Europe and Siberia to Tokyo. There another stop will be made before the hop over the Pacific to Honolulu. From Honolulu, the airship will proceed to San Diego, Cal., and thence back to the starting point here. Dr. Eckener expects to complete the world flight by September 3.

The route has been announced as toward the northland, over Arctic regions, but weather conditions will decide changes in the course as the ship progresses over the northern wastelands.

The greatest immediate peril of the Graf was seen in her removal from the hangar. Every precaution had been taken to prevent wind causing damage as she is walked out to the mooring mast from her berth beside The Los Angeles.

Special Trains
With special trains running to the field from New York, Philadelphia and other points and thousands expected during the day to watch the final preparations for the takeoff, careful arrangements are being made for policing.

The orderly manner in which everything concerned with the arrival and now the departure of the ship has aroused comment from everyone who has visited the field. The crowds have been perfectly orderly, the large number of newspapermen consider the reasonable requests of the authorities and the marines and sailors instantly responsive to commands.

The orderly picture is directly in contrast with the scene at the field on the Graf's first visit when marines found it necessary to use their sticks as the crowds broke through the lines. Lieutenant S. F. Reichelderfer, aerologist at the naval station here sees little prospects of strong winds for the start of the flight. The ship should swing easily at the mooring mast and at a signal from Dr. Eckener, release of her nose will free the Graf to point up and out into the regions she strains to reach.

Hydrogen In
Seventy thousand cubic feet of hydrogen has been pumped into the Graf and 140,000 cubic feet more is being taken in today to fill the 840,000 cubic foot requirement.

From cities throughout the country, mail poured in to the field today. Letters are addressed to Germany, Japan, California and many are directed to be carried around the world and be returned to the last of the Ethane gas which furnishes fuel for the motors was pumped aboard. At the same time, 210 gallons of lubricating oil were taken on to replace that used on the Friedrichshafen-Lakehurst hop. The used oil which still remained in the motors was not removed.

SHOTGUN SLUGS RIDDLE GANGSTER NEAR HOSPITAL

the guns dropped Monastero. Sam, turning, fired three shots from his revolver at a man who stepped from the curtained car to empty his revolver into the head of the fallen gangster.

Brother Captured.
Then, turning, Sam ran through the hospital, out another door and was captured several blocks away by Police Lieutenant Thomas Gross. Detectives, hurrying to the scene of the shooting, found Monastero dead and a trail of blood leading away into the bushes. It was believed the man at whom Sam shot was left on the sidewalk as the killing car sped away, and was forced to make his way, wounded, into the brush to escape.

It was the second outbreak of the feud in the new racket of supplying copper coils, vats, bottles and other apparatus to bootleggers. The business house of Morris Curran, a rival of Monastero, was bombed and the three story brick building destroyed, last week.

The two Monastero brothers had been traveling in their special armored car, which had swept them to safety many times before when rival gangsters' bullets had splattered about them. As they drew up in front of the hospital they were followed by another armored car, carrying heavily armed guards.

Carefully Planned.
The killing, police believed, was carefully planned and executed to "get" Monastero at the rare moment when he was unprotected and unsuspecting. Ordinarily, they said, he went his way protected by the muzzles of a dozen guns in the hands of bodyguards.

As the two stepped from the protection of their steel-clad car, to visit Charles Spallino, who had been operated on for appendicitis, they were exposed for a brief moment. In another few seconds they would have been under the protecting muzzles of the guns of their guards, who were climbing from the second armored car.

With the smooth precision of an executing squad, the occupants of the curtained car opened fire and sped away, making only the one mistake of leaving their leader to the mercy of Sam Monastero's gun. At that, the leader escaped.

Spallino, the man who lay on the hospital cot, was himself well known in underworld circles, and to police. Murder charges against him in connection with the slaughter of Joseph Daniels, in January, 1923, were dismissed after the state's case fell thru. The killing of Daniels followed the shooting to death of Joseph Luciano, in McKees Rocks.

Four Under Arrest.
Sam Monastero, Spallino, Angelo Steele, 22, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Riella Clarino were the men under arrest today and believed to hold the key to the killing. The latter two were arrested in the room of Spallino.

The "guard" car, police believed, was driven by the Ohio man, Joseph Campisi, a God-daughter of Sam Monastero and a graduate nurse in charge of Spallino, was taken into custody also, as a material witness.

Cash totaling $6,000 was found in the clothing of the slain man, police said.

It was believed Spallino also was marked for death in the plot. Several bullets were found to have been fired through the windows of the sick man's room, and imbedded in the wall beside his bed.

Monastero was one of the men indicted by the government in what was known as the "Greater Pittsburgh Conspiracy". He fled the city during the trials, and was believed to have been in California. He returned, however, after the government prosecutions fell through.

Brown-Pollard Candidates For Governorship

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Backs Professor Brown In Race For Governorship

(International News Service)
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 7.—Virginia's political battle of the century, which is expected to reveal the degree of permanency of the Smith split in 1928, will be fought out between John Garland Pollard and Prof. William H. Brown, rival candidates for the governorship in the Old Dominion.

Pollard easily won the regular Democratic nomination in yesterday's state-wide primary, trebling the vote of his two rivals, G. Walter Mapp and Rosewell Page. Prof. Brown is the candidate of the anti-Smith-Republican coalition, backed by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., the militant foe of Smith's presidential candidacy.

Bishop Cannon's continued influence in Virginia politics is at stake. Mary political observers consider the aggressive Bishop "the real issue."

Cannon led the bolt last year which resulted in Virginia going Republican for the first time since reconstruction days.

State police said that Kinnerling was well armed when taken into custody here. He was said to have made his way to liberty while working with a convict gang yesterday.

According to state police, Kinnerling returned to Rockview this morning and assisted O'Connor in making his escape. They had cut their way through a high wire fence today, police said, and then had stolen an automobile owned by one of the guards.

When the alarm was sounded state police from the Greensburg barracks were detailed to this section and the convicts were arrested here shortly after they had abandoned the machine. They are held here awaiting the arrival of guards from Rockview to return them to the prison.

The convicts refused to talk when they were placed in the lockup of the substation here, state police said. Warden McFarland, of Rockview, was notified of their capture and he immediately detailed guards to return the prisoners to the Bellefonte institution.

Escaped Prisoners Taken In Custody By State Police

(International News Service)
EBENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 7.—State police today captured two convicts who had made a successful break for freedom from Rockview penitentiary at Bellefonte. The men were taken into custody here by police operating out of the Greensburg barracks under the command of Sergeant Frank J. Gleason.

The convicts captured today were James Kinnerling, 28, and George O'Connor, 25, both of Pittsburgh. They were sentenced in Allegheny county in 1923 to serve from eight to 16 years in Rockview on charges of robbery.

State police said that Kinnerling was well armed when taken into custody here. He was said to have made his way to liberty while working with a convict gang yesterday.

According to state police, Kinnerling returned to Rockview this morning and assisted O'Connor in making his escape. They had cut their way through a high wire fence today, police said, and then had stolen an automobile owned by one of the guards.

Local Plant Superintendent Tells Of Telephone Development

Kivaniens of New Castle today were told that Bell Telephone company officials roughly estimated that there are thirty million telephones in operation throughout the world and that nineteen million of this number are in the United States. The facts were told by Charles A. Belen, plant superintendent of the New Castle district Bell Telephone company, in his address before the local service organization.

In his interesting message, superintendent Belen told of the development of the telephone and of its wide commercial use today. He explained the repeater station process, stating that these relay stations on the trans-continental toll line are located at every 50 mile point.

Henry established a minimum wage of $8 and now intends to raise it. The intended Belen told of the development of the telephone and of its wide commercial use today. He explained the repeater station process, stating that these relay stations on the trans-continental toll line are located at every 50 mile point.

Mr. Belen also cited the proposed working program of the Bell in the New Castle district for the next few years. One toll cable from Butler here will cost the company approximately a half million dollars, he said.

A large congregation greeted Rev. Thomas N. Carter, evangelist and prison worker, at the opening night Tuesday evening of a special series of evangelistic services in the Alliance Gospel Tabernacle, Pearson street.

Rev. Carter who was a former convict, spending some time in a southern prison, preaches with great power, and keeps the undivided attention of his audience.

In this party are his wife who sang last evening, Mr. Moon who plays on the trombone and Thomas Carter, Jr. In addition to the sermon by Rev. Carter, the special selections by Mrs. Carter and Mr. Moon added much to the interest of the services last evening. The meeting will continue each evening this week and next week.

Looks Like Action Galore Monday Night

Kosky And Dugan Have Achieved Victories Over Topnotch Foes And Are Being Primed For Seat In "Front Row" Scarney And Florin To Meet In Semi-Final; De Neri Meets Anthony; Midway "Prepping" For Beaver Falls Middleweight Hope; One Other Bout To Be Arranged.

By ED FRITZ

Fight fans of New Castle who were forced to idle their time away night before last will see two good junior lightweights, in fact, a brace of the best next Monday evening when they hit to Jolly Bowl to see Fay Kosky, San Francisco but more recently of Chicago go clash with Jackie Dugan, a meteoric chap from Louisville.

Kosky, a former United States sailor and Dugan have turned in some brilliant victories and the punch party that has been prepared should not be a packed bowl. Personally we believe the fans would rather see two strangers who can fight than two prominent "washed up" fighters.

Yesterday the writer received a letter from Tom Walsh of Chicago. There's not a fan who hasn't heard of Walsh. He simply won't monkey with a poor fighter, because he is in business to make money, and the boxing game today is like any other business. No one can sell poor material, should it be shirts, butter or fighters.

Tom wrote as follows:
CHICAGO, Aug. 4, 1929.
Mr. Ed Fritz,
News
New Castle, Pa.

Friend Fritz: New Castle has a great fight for Monday night. I say concerning Kosky. He is a southpaw and is the kind of a boy who m-a-k-e-s his opponent fight.

Here is a list of some of his recent fights:
He beat Harry Forbes in six rounds.
He also beat Johnny O'Keefe, Columbus, and was outwitted 10 rounds.

When Kosky fought Ignacio Fernandez in San Francisco he won the first fight. The second bout was a draw.
Baby Sal lost to Kosky.

Kosky is a product of the United States navy. He served four years for Uncle Sam and knows nothing but fight.
I'll have Kosky in New Castle Saturday. Fans who want to see this southpaw can watch him work Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

(Signed) TOM WALSH.
Should the fans who follow fighters here through the foregoing he will discover the names of some good boxers—Forbes, Shea, Fernandez and Baby Sal.

In his bout with Shea Kosky nailed Eddie in the third and down he went for a count. He got up. Kosky recently lammed Jack LeBarre.
The "Knockout" a California sport paper, says:

"Sailor Fay Kosky had to go to Chicago to prove his real worth. Tossed around the California rings like a cork on a crestless ocean, he was taken to Chicago and substituting on two days' notice, went in and fought Eddie Shea and had Shea on the floor in the third round. Kosky is as good as any of them. He beat Baby Sal, and anybody who can do that should not be overlooked, yet they overlooked Kosky right here in California."

He is willing to fight anybody. Kosky was to have fought Tony Herrera here, but Tony's manager murmured "Nay". Tony is good, and darned good, and the refusal to box Kosky shows that he is a piece of dynamite in flesh.

Jackie Dugan has been boxing several years. Not a year ago he fought Joey Goodman at a time when Joey was hitting them on the whiskers.

We remember the day that Jimmie Dunn came back from Louisville. He was all hot up because the papers were divided and some gave the fight to Dugan.

Yesterday we telephoned to Gus Sanzera at Cincinnati and asked: "Did Dugan beat Goodman?" Gus said: "Yes." We haven't seen "the papers." Personally we take no stand.

But we have on our desk a copy of the Cincinnati Enquirer in which there is a story by Joe Nolan, boxing editor. It covers the Mike Dundee-Jackie Dugan fight.

He says the largest crowd of the season turned out to see Dugan met Dundee, and the sports editor says: "Dugan made a fine impression by outpointing Dundee in a red hot battle that went the limit. Lou Bauman refereed." Nolan continued: "While Dundee never claimed any honors as a scientific boxer, he was nevertheless declared winner of several fights of note in this city during the last few years, but with Dugan he was unable to keep the pace and Dugan came home a winner by a safe margin.

"Dundee smashed hard rights that almost knocked Dugan off his pins, but the plucky Kentuckian always came back with a rush and did not appear to be worried over Dundee's right hand. The contest was interesting and the huge crowd enjoyed the contest hugely." Nolan says that Dundee's left eye was cut and bled profusely.

Dugan also holds a victory over Harry Dubinsky of Chicago, who is no pink tea playmate in a ring, and hopes to beat Kosky here.

There is one thing sure. They did not want to name their own opponent and have reputations that ought to bring the fans out in droves.

Snarling Scarney on Deck!
Frank Florin, who surprised the fight fans of the tri-state district by battling Young Jack Dempsey (Tiny Dibioli) at St. Louis last week, will meet the snarling Scarney in a post-round semi-final. Scarney wants to fight as often as possible. He doesn't turn down anybody and is rarin' to go. In fact, he puts me in mind of a Pit Terrier that always has its head stuck from a kennel—looking for trouble. He may find plenty of it Monday night. Florin is better than Haymaker and Dugas combined. He hits like Babe Ruth. Scarney is no cream puff puncher himself.

Jack De Neri, the long-legged gazabo who walloped Lou Sanders and got a draw, will fight Zivie Anthony of Pittsburgh. To be frank, we've never lapped Anthony. The only sure thing we can say about him is that he is no relation to Mark Anthony. Jacques will take no chances, however. Zivie is in the same stable as Jackie Rodgers, the colored bantamweight of Pittsburgh.

Ahem—Here's Juhazs
Jose Juhazs, Beaver Falls, a middleweight, will come to fight Joe Midway. Joe has fought half a dozen times. Sig Keppen, former lightweight, is manager of Juhazs, and wants to see what his lad can do with Midway. The blonde is wild about swings. If Juhazs doesn't land with his chin he may beat Midway. Should he attempt to propel his chin against Midway's right hand—curtains!

It is not yet known who will star the show in the first four-rounder. Jackie King is out of the game temporarily, owing to a bad knuckle, but Johnny Jenkins or some other local lad will be in the first battle.

Promoter Bill Jolly stated today his calendar of prices for the high-class bill will be three, two and one. Last week the fans paid $1.50 for the bleachers.

AT NEW YORK—Sergt. Sammy Baker and Baby Joe Kins fought 10 rounds to a draw.

AT NEW YORK—George Siders, knocked out Herbie Green in the second round (10).

AT PEORIA, ILL.—Tuffy Griffiths, Chicago heavyweight, knocked out Jack Murphy of Boston (1).

Late Tex Rickard Is Sorely Missed

Schmeling-Sharkey Bout Goes To Detroit Simply Because Of Bungling

Guiding Hand Of Late Famous Promoter Is Missed By Garden Officials

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—After a thorough investigation, the writer has decided to reveal today the inside story of the Sharkey-Schmeling episode and why, having been barred out of New York and having reached the point where New York virtually is scaring it out of Detroit, it is getting nowhere right straight along.

It is a story told in less than a dozen words, as follows: A man by the name of Rickard died seven months ago.

Shortly after his death, statements, almost gleeful in tone, were issued that seemed to prove that Garden boxing was so good that it didn't need Rickard. It needs him. The Garden, with its invested millions, is being run at the moment by a man by the name of William F. Carey and, by virtue of a rather intimate scrutiny of his work, I have found out something about him. He is no Rickard. This is exclusive.

Carey is Amateur
He, of course, has done the best he could but at times his best has just missed being terrible. One of those times is now. He has a trick fight on his hands and apparently has been bluffed out of all of his bets by a boxing commission that knows enough to make its play and then sit tight. Rickard was too sound a gambler to be thus caught out on a limb.

His successor has allowed one fighter, Schmeling, to dominate and ordain his course of action. Rickard would not go that far for a fighter unless he found that the fighter's whim happened to coincide with his own. He did not want a Dempsey-Willis fight, and therefore, a shift of the Dempsey-Turner affair to Philadelphia, after it was barred here, happened to be right down his boulevard. He was willing to take a chance because he knew Dempsey was a million-dollar fighter.

Carey started out to play the thing the same way, only he missed one bet. He didn't have the million-dollar man to make it worth his while. He, therefore, now finds himself in the midst of a terrible boyer over something that won't pay him sixty cents on the dollar, even if he does put it over. That isn't gambling; that's sure-things suicide. Mr. Carey, by the way, rather flatters himself on his gambling and perhaps he has a certain modest ability in this line. Be that as it might, he has overlooked or forgotten the first rule of all gambling, i. e., never play the other man's game.

Names Unknown
For months, he has been playing a game in which it is doubtful whether he knew even the names of the most prominent principals involved. So, without any real sense of values, he thought to back the hands he held to the limit and played Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia against the local commission.

At the show down, he found only Detroit ready to stand with him, which was a square enough break for anybody, at that. But, at the last moment, he hesitates, he falters. He doesn't know whether he wants to bet any more. Maybe he thinks that he has lost enough already.

I don't know that I blame him altogether. If he goes through and the Garden takes the rap for a long-term suspension, it will set up boys like Paddy Harmon in Chicago and Floyd Fitzsimmons in Detroit most magnificently and they are coming fast enough as it is. Furthermore, the Singer-Chocolate fight has been made for August 29 and if Carey does anything drastic in the meantime, he might as well throw this $150,000 proposition in the ash receiver with the rest of the dead ones. Carey, indeed, can't be blamed for flinching but he can be blamed for getting himself in an impasse where, either his vanity or his pocketbook must suffer.

No, Garden boxing probably didn't need Rickard—when all was well. When all is well, nobody needs anybody. It is only in adversity that it becomes necessary for the strong man to haul off and show his union card.

The game was a hard-fought duel between Fabian and Lazar, with the former the most effective. Fabian fanned seven men and gave but eight scattered hits. Lazar was found for 11 hits and fanned four men.

Gornal was the heavy hitter of the game with a double, triple and single. J. Fabian, Braky and Passaliqua also had two-base hits.

Paul Waner Graces Bench While Flagstead Romps In Right

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—While Paul Waner warmed a bench the Giants warmed the Pirates, five to three and the defeat was doubly distressing because the Cubs lost leaving Pittsburgh to dream of a fumbled chance to regain a bit of lost ground.

Paul Waner has been in a slump and yesterday Donie Bush sent the player who two years ago was voted the most valuable in the National League to the dugout and Ira Flagstead replaced "Big Poison" in right.

The change also revamped the hitting order.
The score was tied up to the eighth when the Gothardites put over a brace of runs.

Petty and Walker, southpaws, received poor support in critical moments.

Nick Navarre Is New Manager Of Hillsville Team

Navarre Gathers Up Team And Will Finish Season With Hillsville Team

Nick Navarre is the new manager of the Hillsville team of the Lawrence County League. This was revealed today.

Navarre was prevailed upon to reorganize the Hillsville team after the recent team went "biocoy". Navarre has gathered up a fairly good ball club and will complete the Hillsville schedule.

Last night the Hillsville team took one on the chin from Wampum, the score being 9 to 2. Braky twirled for Wampum and Riley was the pitcher for Hillsville.

"Costella," late umpire in the league, is now catching for Hillsville, said Navarre.

Commissioner Glitch is asked to assign two more umpires to take the place of Navarre and Costella.

Navarre can be reached for games by calling 1628-R between 5:30 and eight o'clock any evening. Team managers are asked to take notice of the change in managers in the Hillsville team.

Yanks Hope To Pick Up Ground

Philadelphia Today; Double Bill On Program

By HENRY McLEMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Just how much justification there is in Mr. Miller Huggins' belief that his Yankees are far from being out of the American League race will be shown today when the Yanks meet the flying Athletics in two games at Philadelphia.

The Yanks are 11½ games back of the lead. With this fact staring him in the face, Mr. Huggins, optimist though he is, must admit that his club needs nothing so badly as to win both games today and the single affair tomorrow. If they are to remain as contenders, they must take but two out of three some 10½ games will remain to be picked up in less than two months—a thing that isn't being done in this day and time.

Mickey Fedore Stops Perotta

Former Bearcat Of Tri State Middleweights Only Shell Of Self

BODY BLOWS START PEROTTA DOWNWARD

By ED FRITZ
BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 7.—The pugilistic swan song of George Perotta was sung to the tune of boxing gloves here last night when Mickey Fedore, a rugged middleweight of Canton dropped Perotta in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

The victory was hollow, however, as George lacked all semblance to the fighter who once set the fans wild when he entered a ring. Perotta lacked pep, punch, balance and when he called upon his stamina it failed to respond.

In our opinion it was a pitiable end to a boy who might have had a brilliant career inside the ropes. When he was floored in the fifth, he was sitting dazed and he did not hear the numerals being counted by the referee.

When George entered he looked pinched and after the first few minutes of strenuous exertion his face showed a ghastly white, a color which in our opinion tells the story. They punched with each other and in the third they were both tired.

Perotta was tired when he went to his corner in the fifth while Fedore though crude in his fighting was fresh. They came from the corner in the fifth and body blows aided with punches to the chin soon vanquished Perotta.

Phalanx Team Tops Firemen

The Phalanx Fraternity team of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the New Castle Firemen 13 to 3 in a baseball game played at Colonial field on Tuesday night.

Lindy Bruce on the knoll for the Phalanx, had the Firemen at his mercy all through the game. He gave out six hits and kept them scattered. The Phalanx had ten hits off Clark. Bruce in addition to hurling a fine game, was the slugging star of the battle with two home runs. Harper, Lusk, McGrath and McCoy also hit timely.

The Firemen scored all of their runs in the fifth frame, while the Phalanx had two big innings, the third and sixth. Robert P. McFarland and Harper played good fielding game for the Firemen. Bray at third and Clark at first played good ball for the Phalanx.

A British Invasion

British pluck will meet an other interesting test in fields of sport soon when John Bull's fair tennis stars will play for that Wightman Cup on Friday and Saturday at the famous Forest Hills, L. I. stadium. A month from now, Mr. Cyril James Hastings Tolley, British amateur golf champion, will try to win the American title at Pebble Beach, Cal. British chances would be bright were it not for Helen Wills and Bobby Jones. Betty Nuthall or Mrs. Phoebe Watson (most probably the former) is expected to make England's chief effort in the Wightman matches against Uncle Sam's most glorious Helen. Miss Wills defeated Miss Nuthall handily in the 1927 national singles final and Mrs. Watson, last year, in an international match, Mrs. Phyllis E. Covell, Dorothy C. Spencer, Barron and L. R. C. Mitchell will also represent the dear old Albion lioness on our courts.

Because of victories in the 1925 Wimbledon doubles, John Bull expects his daughters to repeat in those Wightman Cup events. And they may do so, because "girls will be girls" and—Uncle Sam's "Helens of Berke-

Mandell Won't Retire

—Until Little Sammy Is Big Enough To Boast Of Daddy's Prowess

When there are black eyes, I don't mind black eyes, because of you, SAMMY boy.

Fans won't forsake me, let them all forsake me, You'll pull me through, SAMMY boy.

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Central Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Ladie-e-e and gent-il-l-men, introducing Mister Sammy Mandell, champe-e-on lightweight boxer of the world, who will consider retiring when little Sammy (Richard Samuel), his year-old son, gets big enough to go out on the streets of Rockford, Ill., where he lives and boozes.

"My daddy can lick you's; he's world's champeen!"

It's going to be "curtains" for a long time to come for any aspiring lightweight who casts longing eyes on the lightweight titular belt. Just take that from its present possessor. And the reason is the aforementioned little Sammy.

He'll Retire When—

When the boy gets large enough so he can tell his playmates that his father is the champ and knows what it means to be a champ, the elder Sammy is ready to see the other boxers' arm raised as victor and lawful recipient of the lightweight laurels. And not until.

weight ranks, in Paddy Harmon's Chicago stadium the other night.

"I'm going to keep the title until my boy can point to me with pride as champion."

"Worried? I should say I'm not, I'll live out this little ambition of mine as sure as there are 12-ounce boxing gloves. I am young. I keep in good condition, and I have defeated the best men the world has been able to produce since I won the title."

The champion does keep in good condition constantly. Not that he trains all the time, but the lightweight titleholder lives clean and right.

He is a home-loving boy, with a beautiful house in Rockford, the town where he spent his boyhood and where he graduated from high school athletics into the prize ring.

A Home-Loving Champ.
Sammy married the daughter of one of the foremost families of the town, and when he isn't barnstorming, or training for a ring battle, he always can be found at home, working in his garden, or on the lawn, or maybe playing with his son's best companion, "Jo Jo," a little white terrier.

His small son is the apple of Sammy's eye. And after every fight he hastens to a phone to find out how the boy is, or if he's close enough, grabs a train for home and Sammy boy.

You're sent from Heaven.
And I know your worth.
You've made a Heaven
For me right here on earth.
When I've lost my punch, dear,
Promise you will say dear,
"He fought for me," Sammy boy.

Mahoning Defeats Wesley M. E. 3-2

The Mahoning M. E. team defeated Wesley M. E., 3 to 2, in one of the best and fastest played games in the Church League this year at the Church Lane field. The game was a pitching duel between Robison and Lennigan, with the seventh ward boy having the edge.

The Mahoning team won the game in the fourth by shoving over a lone marker after having tallied twice in the second frame. The Wesley team had difficulty solving the baffling delivery of Robison, who made six batters whiff the breeze. Rech and Woehner had the only extra base blows of the battle.

First Methodists Defeat Mahoning

The First Methodist team, with Shoaf pitching an airtight game, defeated the Mahoning M. E. team 9 to 2 in a game played Monday night at the seventh ward field.

Shoaf allowed the seventh warders but four hits, and had six strikeouts to his credit. Robison on the hill for Mahoning was found for seven hits. The seventh ward boys had five errors, giving Robison ragged support.

Ray Barbuti May Be Reinstated

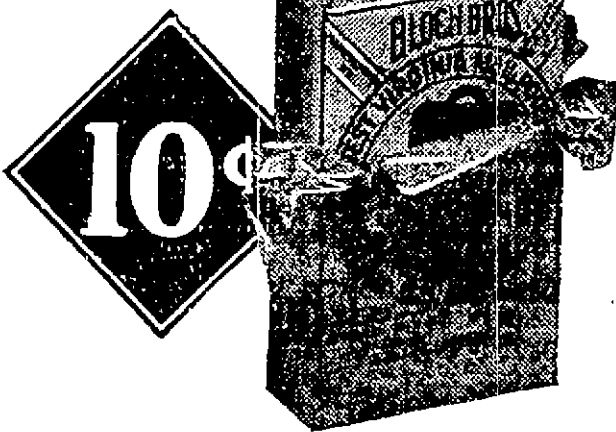

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The A. U. bulletin, issued today, announces that the case of Ray Barbuti, suspended Olympic team star, will once again be reviewed with the chances being that the former Syracuse star will be eventually returned to good standing.

Annual Golf Meet Of Presbyterians Shows Low Score

In spite of the threatening weather, a goodly number of the lady and gentlemen golfers gathered at the local field club on Tuesday afternoon and evening for their fourth annual golf tournament and dinner. This annual event is long looked forward to by the golfing fraternity of the First church and yesterday was no disappointment to those participating.

With the weather clearing off in the afternoon, it made an ideal day for a full round and a large number of fans entered into the contests of the afternoon, with the following results:

Ladies' Events

G. H. N.
Mrs. John E. Elliott	104 32
Mrs. D. H. Long	116 43
Mrs. George S. Long	120 49
Miss Rachel Wallace	108 27
Mrs. A. B. Street	147 50

With a low net score, Mrs. Elliott won the Robert K. Aiken trophy for 1929.

On the putting green Mrs. Elliott again carried off the honors, with Mrs. D. H. Long second, while Mrs. Elliott had the best drive on No. 8 fairway.

Men's Events

G. H. N.
Dr. C. F. McDowell	100 31
William Long	79 9
Philip H. Bridenbaugh	96 26
Albert B. Street	87 14
John E. Elliott	88 14
Samuel Perry Jr.	89 14
John E. Waddington	86 10
George A. Carpenter	98 22

With the low net score, Dr. McDowell won the T. F. Morehead cup for 1929.

George A. Carpenter won the best drive on No. 7 green, with Sam Perry taking second place, while George S. Long carried off the putting honors, having only 23 putts for the 18 holes.

The feature playing of the afternoon was the low gross score of Bill

Long, one of the city's best junior golfers. With a total score of 79 he easily placed himself among the best, if not the best, for his age in this vicinity.

Following the tournament the golfers, together with a large number of other field club members of the First Presbyterian church, enjoyed a fine dinner together. At this time the trophies were awarded and then the evening was spent with informality reigning. The arrangements were in charge of the following committee: Maurice A. McClure, Murrow D. Wells, John B. Waddington and Albert B. Street.

News-Phalanx League Leaders

The New Castle News team and the Phalanx of the "Y" are leading the New Castle M. A. S. League, in games played to date, in the third and final round of the season.

The News took the measure of the Bankers and the Phalanx hung the "Indian sign" on the Firemen.

Tonight at the Lehigh field the Shenango Tin Mill team will tackle the strong Lehigh Cement outfit. The Cementers hold the only victory of the year over the Tin Wallpapers, and are out to repeat their performance tonight. Manager Flynn is confident that the Cement Makers can win again over that good Tin Mill crew.

Manager Fraser, McBride and Company thinks differently. The game tonight will start at 6:30 o'clock.

Thursday night the newly organized Haneey Furniture team will tangle with the Post Office team, at Colonial field. The Haneey team will be playing their first game as members of the M. A. S. League. They hope to win.

Friday night, the New Castle News team will battle for first place with the Phalanx team. The game will be played at Colonial field.

Mexican Tumbles Another "Set-Up"

Tony Herrera Knocks Out Billy Callahan In Second Round

Tony Herrera of Chicago knocked out Billy Callahan of Chicago in the second round last night at Washington, Pa. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds but it ended 45 seconds after the second bell rang.

The junior lightweight fought before a capacity crowd at the Goodrich bowl.

Mickie Solomon lost the decision but actually won a six round fight from Lee Sala, according to dispatches.

Patsy, the 11-year-old daughter of Thomas Jefferson, received a letter from her father in 1783 containing the following: "I do not wish you to be gaily clothed at this time of life, but that your wear should be fine of its kind." "Do not fancy you must wear them until the dirt is visible to the eye. xxx. But be you, from the moment you rise till you go to bed, as cleanly and properly dressed as at the hours of dinner or tea." "Nothing is so disgusting to our sex as a want of cleanliness and delicacy in yours."

Cool Weather Fails To Hinder Conference Success

NEW WILMINGTON, Aug. 7.—Cool and uncertain weather has not interfered with the success of the missionary conference here. If the numbers in attendance at the meetings now in session may be taken as a criterion of success, again yesterday evening a large crowd heard a sermon by Dr. J. S. Maxwell of the Egyptian Sudan.

Morning meetings are also being well attended by both the young people and elderly delegates. These meetings are being held in the new administration building of Westminster college.

Such entertainments as treasure hunts, basketball games, volleyball contests and tennis matches are the recreational diversion of the conference people in the afternoon. Miss Catherine McClure and Virgil Barnes are arranging interesting afternoon programs.

Tonight the speaker at the main meeting will be Dr. W. J. McMichael of Greensburg and a missionary present is to be given at the hour of the evening service tomorrow.

Yesterday evening the Happy Hour society of the local Presbyterian church held a picnic at Cascade park in New Castle. The committee in charge of the party included Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Ramsey.

John Lawther, noted Westminster basketball coach, is vacationing near the Camp Phillips Boy Scout camp. Edward Brown, who is employed as chemist in a Dupont factory in Wisconsin, is spending a vacation period at his home here.

A prominent life insurance authority advocates taking all locks off bathroom doors because of the accidents that frequently happen when persons are bathing, and suggests that a card, "Engaged" or some similar device be placed on the door when it is occupied, preventing entrance in the event of necessity. But what protection from wilful assault would that bring to the man who invites to murder by singing in his bath?

NEW YORK STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Copper stocks and favored utilities sold at slightly higher prices in a quiet market this morning. Car loadings on the American railroads in excess of 1,100,000 in the last week of July, the highest on record for this time of year, reflected the unusually high rate of the movement of goods in domestic trade, and industrial reports were generally favorable. Call money renewed at 10 per cent, against yesterday's close at 8 per cent.

Stocks of all the metals' companies were in good form as the market swung into its stride in the first hour. American metals sold up more than 3 points at 74; Anaconda Copper reached 122 1/2 in the course of its upward move, which has carried the stock forward 11 points since the middle of last week. Andes Copper, American Smelting and other favorites sold up a point or two in response to hardening of copper metal in the home and foreign markets.

Selling pressure on the utility stocks and high-prices specialties increased in the second hour as traders "cash" in the profits accruing from the wide upward swings in stock prices over the past few weeks.

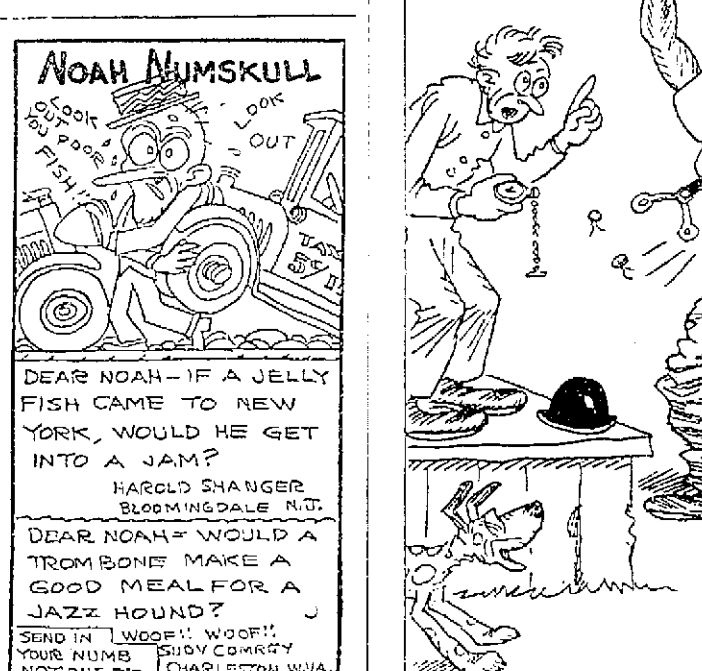

In spite of his persistent selling, a few of the favorites pushed ahead, American and Foreign Power selling in good volume above 145 and Bethlehem Steel in demand at 124. U. S. Steel topped 112 as rumors of a split-up in the stock floated through Wall Street, though a drop of 100,000 tons is looked for in the July unfilled tonnage report on Saturday.

Archison led the rails, with a new advance to 265, but trading in this section of the market was in small volume. Commodity markets were steady, with cotton up 8 points.

In the Province of Bosnia, once a vassal of Austria, but now a part of the Kingdom of Serbia, Croatia and Slovenia, most of the women still wear trousers, dye their hair and fingernails with henna and cover their heads with a kind of black shroud, which entirely conceals the face. In addition they wear white gloves in public, leaving no part of the body exposed. The Koran which they have adopted teaches them that they must never expose their faces to any man other than a father, brother or husband. Even the little girls dress in the baggy trousers, henna their hair and fingernails and wear necklaces of huge blue beads to keep off the "evil eye." About 99 per cent of the Bosnian women are illiterate.

Fayette County To Undergo Cleaning

New District Attorney And Special Officers Will Attempt To Clean House

Hope To Solve Recent Slaying Of Ex-Constable Jack Donohue; Is Big Task

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 7.—“We purpose to clean house.”

With this statement of policy, Jacob B. Adams, newly appointed district attorney of Fayette county, took office today, promising to devote the full resources of his department to the difficult task of solving the slaying of John Donohue, former constable, who was slain by racketeers a week ago.

Adams also stated that the investigation into crime conditions in the county would not stop at solution of the murder, but would continue until organized crime had been crushed in his district.

“We intend to throw the united force of the law enforcement bodies into the task of cleaning out the lawless element that has given Fayette county a bad name,” said Adams in outlining his campaign against crime and criminals. “We shall be no respecters of persons. We purpose to clean house.”

Outline Policy. A. E. Jones, who was appointed special prosecutor in the Donohue case, echoed Adams’ statement of policy. Both men are prominent in the activities of the reform element in Uniontown and Fayette county.

While Adams and Jones were laying the groundwork for the extensive cleanup, the investigation of the killing of Donohue proceeded under the direction of Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of state police, who took personal charge of the probe several days ago. Adams, however, still refuses to state definitely that any of the various clues have pointed to a solution of the killing. Major Adams refused to expand his statement that “the investigation is going forward to find the final block in the puzzle.”

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Pickup is a great thing in an automobile. Engineers strive to increase it and drivers like about it. If every car had as much pickup as the owner claims the engineers would be out of jobs.

There are other kinds of pickup to automobiles. The kind that prompts a driver to pull over to the curb at night and attempt to “pickup” a couple of decent girls who happen to be walking along. The size of the engine or the color of the upholstery has nothing to do with this kind of pickup for often an asthmatic fiver has more of it than a straight eight.

There isn't much use suggesting that something be done about these Gasoline Lotharios who annoy decent women on the streets. No police force in the world is large enough to take care of such a situation and these Rubber Tired Lotharios are very wary about John Law. It would be a nice thing if some of the girls could pack a dormick or two in their purses, and when one of these smirking saps pulls up to the curb and asks if they wouldn't like a nice ride, to bounce said dormick off their empty heads.

Score another for Traffic Officer Tommy Jones. One of these red light crashers breezed through at Mill and Washington, Tuesday afternoon apparently a victim of color blindness. He wasn't deaf however, and heard Tommy's whistle. He was favored with a calling card which urged him to drop around to the mayor's office and leave a little contribution.

Get set for a flock of roast ox. If Lew McCullough is to be believed, and who wouldn't believe a city treasurer, the dedication of the Jordan Game Farm on August 24 will break all records, standing, sitting and climbing, for eating roast ox. In addition to the roast ox there will be a lot of speeches favoring the meat.

Barbecues or just talking about bring back memories of 1918. Had the pleasure in that year of attending a barbecue at the Beech Island Farmers' Club at Beech Island, South Carolina. What those South Carolinians do to a barbecue hog is a revelation in appetites. The old colored man who did the barbecuing was a character known for miles around for over fifty years he had been in demand and was well known in this art when Sherman made his march to the sea.

Ten Beech Island Farmer's Club is said to be the forerunner of the present granges. Robert E. Lee's secretary was at one time secretary of the club and wrote the by-laws for it.

On the first Saturday of every month a barbecue has been held for seventy five years and the only Saturday ever missed was the Saturday that Sherman was going through. The boys had other things to do that day.

Down in that country, just on the Carolina-Georgia line, there is one song that is omitted from the books and that is “Marching Through Georgia.” And after hearing the old timers tell of what happened, you can't blame them very much.

Believe Miner Killed Himself

Despondency Believed To Have Driven Miner To Take His Own Life

(International News Service) BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 7.—Neal Parelli, alias Neal Elaine, 45, of Merittstown, near here, was shot to death along the West Penn railway tracks near the Allison mine about two miles from here today. Police believe that Parelli took his own life.

After a preliminary investigation, Coroner S. A. Baltz announced that it was highly probable that Parelli shot and killed himself in a fit of despondency brought on by the fact that he had a wife in Italy and was unable to marry a woman with whom he had been keeping company here for some time. Baltz said there was no indication that Parelli was murdered.

New York Beggars Earn $20 Daily

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Pity the poor professional beggar!

For its gotten so that he can't be sure of more than $20 or $30 a day. Investigation by John D. Godfrey, mendicancy officer of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities reveals that some 7,000 professional beggars are levying a tribute of more than $125,000 a day in Manhattan and that their average collections are around $20.

Dr. Snook Revealed Modern “Bluebeard”

Ohio State Professor On Trial For Brutal Killing Lived Real Double Life

Taught Students In Daytime, Made Violent Illegal Love At Night

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN International News Service Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 7.—Dr. James Howard Snook's “dual personality”—his strange, unfathomable characteristics and double life—is coming to light as his trial for the murder of Theora Hix, young and trusting co-ed, proceeds at a snail's pace.

By day a “respectable” college professor teaching impressionable students, and by night a gadabout with women other than his wife, is one picture of this singular man that is being portrayed to the jury by witnesses who knew him well.

And yet, in spite of this, his wife, Mrs. Helen Snook, was preparing today to undergo the ordeal of taking the witness stand in a desperate attempt to do what she can to save him from the electric chair. Even now—“cannot believe these things about Howard.”

Moonshine Still Taken From Basement Of Court House In Martinsburg, W. Va.

(International News Service) MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 7.—Burglars hereabouts are “slick, sure enough.”

Courthouse attaches today are conducting an almost hopeless search for burglars who broke into the basement of the courthouse and carried off two complete moonshine stills, stored there after use as evidence.

Only a few days before, the offices of Magistrate C. C. Westwater, across the street from police headquarters, were burglarized and a revolver with ammunition stolen. Citizens thought this a pretty good one, but the courthouse episode was “sleeker.”

No further sessions of the court will be held this week until Saturday. President Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand announced this morning.
